JAPAN PM SHINZO ABE TO QUIT DUE TO ILL HEALTH

TOKYO: Shinzo Abe, Japan's longest-serving Prime Minister, on Friday said that he intends to step down, owing to health problems. Abe has had ulcerative colitis since he was a teenager, which was controlled with treatment. But it has resurfaced, requiring newer treatment through IV injections, he said. The company will have nine new divisions to manage its global business, instead of 17 divisions now. It will also implement "involuntary separations", but hasn't specified how many workers will be impacted

The statue of Krantiveera Sangolli Rayanna that was installed by Kannada activists at Peeranwadi in Belagavi, after midnight on Friday | EXPRESS

Sangolli Rayanna statue springs up in Belagavi, stokes row

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Belagavi

A rift between Kannada and Marathi activists in Belagavi over the installation of a statue of Krantiveera Sangolli Rayanna at Peeranwadi here has snowballed into a major controversy after a group of Kannada activists hurriedly erected the statue after midnight on Friday. This was merely hours after District Minister Ramesh Jarkiholi and Deputy Commissioner M G Hiremath had assured Kannada activists in Belagavi on Thursday afternoon that the government will find a suitable spot in the area for installation of the statue.

Tension prevailed in Peeranwadi on Friday morning as several people from pro-Marathi groups gathered, objecting to the installation of Sangolli Rayanna's statue. The place where Rayanna's statue has been put up is known as Shivaji Chowk and a statue of Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj is located close by. The pro-Marathi groups in Peeranwadi are opposed to having a statue of Rayanna in that area.

A week ago, pro-Kannada activists had attempted to install the Rayanna statue for the first time, but failed as the police intervened. Later, Kannada activists from across the state had decided to stage a massive protest march in Belagavi and launched it on Thursday afternoon in front of the Suvarna Vidhana Soudha here.

When the protesters were heading towards the Deputy Commissioner's office via B S Yediyurappa Road, Jarkiholi and Hiremath met them and assured that they will find a suitable spot within a few days and ensure that Rayanna's statue is installed there. On their assurance, the protest was called off.

However, a group of Kannada activists took the statue of Rayanna to Peeranwadi after midnight and installed it at the controversial site. When the news spread, several pro-Marathi activists also brought a statue of Shivaji Maharaj and attempted to install it at the same spot. P5

6 Oppn states go to SC over NEET, JEE

Want tests put off, cite safety of students, logistics nightmare amid lockdown restrictions

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

CITING logistics challenges due to lockdown restrictions, six Cabinet ministers of West Bengal, Punjab, Maharashtra, Rajasthan, Chhattisgarh and Jharkhand on Friday filed a joint petition in the Supreme Court seeking postponement of NEET and JEE exams this year.

The exams are scheduled to be held next month.

West Bengal law minister Maloy Ghatak, Jharkhand finance minister Rameshwar Oraon, Rajasthan health minister Dr Raghu Sharma, Chhattisgarh food minister Amarjeet Bhagat, Punjab health minister Balbir Singh Sidhu, and Maharashtra education minister Uday R Samant sought review of the top court's August 17 order rejecting pleas to cancel NEET-UG exams, saying life must go on.

The review petition by the Opposition-ruled states noted that the Supreme Court's decision to allow the Centre to go ahead with the exams fails to secure the students' safety and their 'right to life'.

According to the petitioners, the apex court's advice that 'Life must go on' may have philosophical underpinnings, but it cannot be a substitute to valid legal reasoning and logical analysis of the various aspects involved in the conduct of NEET and JEE.

JEE (Main) will be conducted through 660 centres, with 9.53 lakh students set to appear — roughly 1,443 students per centre.

Similarly, 15.97 lakh students are set to take NEET at 3,843 centres — 415 students per centre. "Such large movement of people will defeat the twin solutions we have of combating the Covid-19 i.e. social distancing and avoidance of large public gatherings," the plea noted.

It termed the Centre's decision "unreasonable, arbitrary and a capricious exercise of power." P7,11

'FINAL-YEAR COLLEGE EXAMS MUST BE HELD'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

UPHOLDING the University Grants Commission notification mandating universities to conduct final-year exams by September 30, the Supreme Court on Friday said states and Union Territories can't promote students without holding exams.

A bench comprising Justices Ashok Bhushan, R Subhash Reddy and M R Shah said final-year exams must be held, and that internal assessments will not suffice for conferring degrees.

However, states have the power to postpone exams in view of the pandemic. They can consult the UGC to fix a fresh date for their state, the Supreme Court said.

SSLC, PUC boards to be merged soon

PEARL MARIA D'SOUZA @Bengaluru

THREE years after it was first proposed, the State Education Department will finally see a centralised body to conduct SSLC and Pre-university board exams. The merger was mooted by the Siddaramaiah government in 2017. "The merger will happen shortly," said Primary and Secondary Education Minister S Suresh Kumar, speaking on the sidelines of the launch of a teacher-friendly app.

The announcement comes in the backdrop of the state's plan to implement the "nationalistic and holistic" NEP.

A top official in the minister's office told TNIE that the unified board will be a reality soon. "The Class 10 SSLC and Class 12 PUC board examinations of 2021 will be managed by the unified board," he said. The reason it did not make any headway despite being announced in 2017, was because it was only proposed and not executed. "Now, the department is ready with administrative changes," the official said. P9

Bengaluru will host Aero India's 13th edition next Feb

MAYANK SINGH & RAMU PATIL
@ New Delhi, Bengaluru

ENDING uncertainty over the next edition of Aero India, Asia's biggest air show, due to the Covid-19 pandemic, the Defence Ministry on Friday decided to hold the biennial event at the Air Force Station, Yelahanka, in Bengaluru, from February 3 to 7, 2021 .

"Defence Minister Rajnath Singh reviewed the situation after taking inputs from various stakeholders and the officials and has given the go-ahead for 13th edition of Aero India 2021 at AF station Yelahanka," a source confirmed.

The surging Covid numbers has not dampened the enthusiasm and the Karnataka Government has started initial preparations almost a month back. "We have already held several rounds of meetings and activated all the stakeholders," said Kapil Mohan, Principal Secretary, Infrastructure Development Department, Government of Karnataka. State government departments play a crucial role in conducting the event by providing logistical support. Defence PSU Hindustan Aeronautics Ltd (HAL) is the nodal agency for conducting the event.

Since the first show in 1996, Aero India has always been held in Bengaluru. There was talk before the 2019 Aero India that it will shift to Lucknow, but Bengaluru remained the venue ultimately. Over 600 Indian and 200 foreign firms participated in the last edition of the event that has evolved into an important one in the calendar of military shows.

The State Government is planning to take several measures to ensure a better experience for participants. Infrastructure upgradation work, especially roads leading to the venue from the city will be taken up at an estimated cost of Rs 30 crore, special shuttle services will be operated on those days and authorities are also planning several other measures. Eight sub-committees have been formed to oversee the tasks. P9

Hands tied, states unable to tick borrow option

ANURADHA SHUKLA @ New Delhi

THE Centre's suggestion in the GST Council meeting on Thursday that states borrow from the Reserve Bank of India to make up for revenue shortfall will not be viable for states. This is because most states are already reeling under high debt as well as fiscal deficit. Under existing rules, states can't borrow more than 3.5% of their GDP.

The Union Finance Ministry has given the option to state governments to borrow as much as ₹2.35 lakh crore from RBI. But as borrowing is guided by the Fiscal Responsibility and Budget Management Act, it will need some regulatory changes.

"There is restriction on the amount they can borrow, which is set at 3% of their GDP and then it was extended to 3.5% during the pandemic. Now, the additional debt will be added to their limit, which will restrict their borrowing capacity for other purposes," a senior finance ministry official said.

States rely on three sources to finance their expenditure — own resources, transfers from the Centre, and borrowings. After GST, dependence on own resources and tax collections shank and, as a result, borrowing shot up.

In the current financial year, the gross borrowings of the Centre and states increased to ₹21.6 lakh crore, while net borrowings stood at ₹18.9 lakh crore.

As of July this year, the combined market borrowings of the Centre and states were almost 77% more than the corresponding period a year ago.

Revenue shortfall, no transfer from the Centre and inability to borrow will force states to cut their planned expenditure, say experts.

According to Soumya Kanti Ghosh, group chief economic adviser at State Bank of India, states have certain limitations on borrowing.

Citing Article 293 (3) of the Indian Constitution, he said a state can't raise borrowings without the Centre's consent if it has any loan outstanding which is repayable to the Government of India.

Also, unlike the Centre, states cannot directly borrow from external sources. "The Centre plays the role of an intermediary in the transfer of external borrowings to states," Ghosh added.

> It is better if the Centre monetises the debt and gives to states. RBI will be also comfortable dealing with the Centre rather than deal with close to 30 sub-national entities

Mining lease grants to be made hassle-free

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

UNION Minister for Coal, Mines and Parliamentary Affairs, Pralhad Joshi, on Friday said that provisions will be made to allow states to auction mining blocks under G4 level — a composite prospecting-cum-mining licence — instead of G3 as sought by state governments.

In a crucial meeting to address roadblocks faced by the mining sector in Karnataka, Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa and Joshi arrived at solutions to many concerns, including constituting a committee to decide on extending the Donimalai mining lease of the National Mineral Development Corporation (NMDC).

"Citing delay in clearance for auctions under G2 by the time proposals reach them, state governments had sought permission to auction blocks under G3 category. We have decided to make legal changes and allow states to auction mines under G4 category composite licence with a rule that if a company opts for an exit plan, it has to share all data with the Union Government," Pralhad Joshi said on Friday.

THE Karnataka High Court on Friday appointed former high court judge, Justice H S Kempanna, as the Claims Commissioner to assess the damage to private and public properties by rioters, investigate liability and award compensation to victims in connection with the violence that occurred in DJ Halli and KG Halli police limits on the night of August 11.

A division bench of Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka and Justice Ashok S Kinagi passed the order appointing Justice Kempanna, after hearing the arguments of Advocate General Prabhuling K Navadgi on the state's plea seeking to initiate suo motu action in terms of the Supreme Court order of 2009 over recovery of damages from rioters for destruction of public and private properties.

The State Government had filed the petition before the High Court based on an appeal made by Bengaluru City Police Commissioner Kamal Pant in view of the huge destruction of private and public properties in the violence. P9

100 YEARS OLD

Seized ivories belonged to hippos from Tanzania

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

THE hippo ivory recently seized by Karnataka foresters is probably from the savannahs of Tanzania, and date back a century. How it reached Shivamogga, and who brought it, was solved in a record time of four days by forest department sleuths.

Believed to be the first case of hippo ivory poaching, it had created a flutter earlier this week when three youngsters had been nabbed on August 24 with the contraband in their four-wheeler in Shivamogga. Forest staffers had contacted them in the guise of buyers, and caught them.

It now transpires that fortunately, no hippopotamus was poached in or around Karnataka, and that the ivory came from a house in Mapusa, Goa.

The case unravelled after foresters arrested Muzzaffar Hassan, 19, a resident of Honnavar, Mohammed Danish, 22, a resident of Bhatkal, and Zahir Khan, 30, of Soraba. Zahir had been arrested earlier by the local police in a narcotics case.

Forest officials found that one of the accused was in Goa, and the other in Honnavar. The trio gave leads to a person called Anil Parashekhar (30), who led them to Vishal alias Devaraj Pawar (30), a native of Belagavi who worked in Goa. Vishal was a driver and did odd jobs for an 80-year-old woman in Mapusa. He stole the ivory from her house and brought it to Shivamogga with Parashekhar's help. They got in touch with the three youngsters to sell the pile of ivory for a commission, Chief Conservator of Forests, Shivamogga, R Ravishankar told TNIE.

Karnataka forest officials took the help of their counterparts in Goa to nab the poachers. The octogenarian reportedly told officials that she had inherited the ivory from her father, who had retired as a forest officer in Tanzania, and settled in Goa in the 1930s, along with his trophies. The teams are now verifying the genuineness of her claims.

The officials are also sending the ivory to the Wildlife Institute of India for carbon dating, forensic verification and origin. An alert has been sounded in Maharashtra and Goa to check for more such cases. The department has also asked citizens who have such wildlife trophies to come forward with ownership records for documentation and verification.

Don't know when and how schools will reopen, says Suresh Kumar

JEE, NEET can be held just like SSLC exam, which was attended by 98% students: Minister

PEARL MARIA DSOUZA
@Bengaluru

THOUGH colleges are set to physically open on October 1, Minister for Primary and Secondary Education S Suresh Kumas has expressed his concern over the reopening of schools.

"The education sector has taken a big hit due to the pandemic. We still do not know when to start schools, or how classes will be conducted once they start," he said.

He was speaking on Friday at the launch of the Teacher Mitra app the department had developed for teachers, with the aim of helping them sort out paperwork related to loans, PF advances, leave, transfers, etc.

"The chief minister has iterated that the SSLC examinations are a matter of pride for our state, as 8.5 lakh students maintained social distancing and attendance was at 98 per cent," said Kumar.

Kumar said those who are pushing for postponing the NEET and JEE should see the SSLC exams as an example.

"We have formed a committee under the chairmanship of educationist MK Sridhar on the use of technology. Based on the report, the Vidyagama programme was started to ensure no student is left out of the learning process," he added.

The Primary Education Department, however, is trying a different model for government schoolchildren, by deploying teachers who are close to students. The model has become popular and a number of parents are shifting their wards from private to government schools.

Educationist Niranjanaradhya VS told TNIE opening degree colleges before schools goes against medical research. "Young children have a lower probability of contracting Covid. People are wrongly advising the state," he said.

On teacher transfers, Kumar said, a teacher-friendly and transparent law is being put in place, and the transfer process will start in September.

Guidelines for Covid-resilient anganwadis

THE Women and Child Development department on Friday launched the guidelines for Covid-19 resilient Integrated Child Development Centres (ICDS) and Gulmohar, a digital curriculum to encourage a home-learning environment and take measures to prepare anganwadi centres for children, pregnant and lactating women.

The intiative, in collaboration with NGO Save the Children, is meant to help internal and external stakeholders reopen educational institutions safely.

The Gulmohar framework aims at reaching out to marginalised communities with play-based learning and well-being activities at home. It will also include WhatsApp audio visuals for socio-emotional well being, physical development, emergent literacy and math skills.

The department also launched the 'Protect a Generation' campaign for kids between 3-6 years and families from waste-picking communities in Bengaluru. It will create platforms and opportunities to have dialogues about positive stories focusing on survival.

Citizen group: Make PRR report public

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

CIVIC group Citizens for Bengaluru (CfB) has written to Bangalore Development Authority chairman HR Mahadev, demanding that the detailed project report (DPR) of the Peripheral Ring Road (PRR) project be made public and uploaded on the BDA website.

They said citizens cannot comment on the project at the virtual public hearing on September 3 without looking into the DPR, its horizontal and vertical alignment, traffic analysis and forecasts, pavements, design, interchanges and flyovers, amenities, etc.

"The PRR is a 65km-long project costing Rs 15,000-plus crore. A total of 33,000 trees will be felled, and it will impact water bodies, catchment areas and reserved forest areas," the letter said. "A project with such massive infrastructure, social, economic and environmental impact needs to be reviewed with diligence, alternatives considered, protection of greenery enabled and planned public utilities along the PRR disclosed. The DPR must be released for public consumption at least two weeks ahead of the consultation," it said.

The initial Environment Impact Assessment (EIA) report was deemed erroneous and rejected by the National Green Tribunal, as the BDA said only 200 trees would be axed. The NGT rejected this claim based on a report submitted by the Horticulture and Forest Departments, which said that 16,685 trees would be felled. The NGT then directed that a new EIA be prepared, which was contested by the BDA in the Supreme Court. The SC asked for a fresh report to be made, and it was finally revealed that 33,838 trees would be axed for the project.

Most feel air travel is safest during Covid, says survey

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

OVER 80 per cent people consider air travel to be the safest mode of transport during the Covid pandemic compared to other forms, a survey has found.

Bangalore International Airport Ltd (BIAL), which operates Kempegowda International Airport, commissioned LeadCap Ventures, a global research and consulting firm, to conduct the survey.

The 'Voice of Pax' survey posed questions to 6,098 people in five phases between April and July, according to an official release.

"The higher safety perceptions associated with air travel and airports steadily improved through the phases (of the survey). In the first phase, 71 per cent respondents considered air travel as the safest mode of transport, while in the final phase, 89 per cent of the respondents did so. There is a 15 per cent increase in the perception that airports are safer than rail and bus stations," it said.

After a two-month country-wide lockdown, domestic air travel resumed from May 25 and international travel through the Vande Bharat Mission, or special repatriation flights.

Though 21 per cent were concerned about airport safety and hygiene checks in Phase 1, it declined considerably to 6 per cent in Phase 5.

Acceptance of contactless processing improved from 62 per cent to 100 per cent, while comfort with using the Arogya Setu e-pass improved from 49 per cent to 86 per cent at the airport, the release added.

Contactless processing and robust sanitisation measures implemented at KIA have boosted passenger confidence in air travel from Bengaluru, the survey found.

"Owing to continuous enhancements in safety and hygiene measures at Bengaluru airport, the intent to fly among respondents improved from a mere 13 per cent in Phase 1 of the survey to 33 per cent in Phase 5, a significant jump indicating a higher positive disposition towards air travel," the release said.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

29th August: Today's top alignment brings Venus, planet of love and Pluto, symbol of deep change, together in a very strong pattern indeed. It's the sort of day which shakes up our relationships and people who are ready could be about to fall in love without warning - or out of love, for that matter!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Venus, planet of love, is about to turn your attention to emotional obligations, but you will be able to be just a little irresponsible and leave serious concerns until later, should you wish! What's important is how you go about implementing your deepest desires.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
Time seems to be slipping between your fingers. You will very soon begin to imagine that the moment is now past for improvement in your home affairs and family relationships. In point of fact you will have a welcome second stab at the cherry within three weeks.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Happily enough, it is an ideal period for country trips and family visits. Try to spend some time enjoying the peace of the mountains, the ocean - or the desert. It is rare indeed that your stars are so straightforward. A financial crisis should now lie in the distant past.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
You may still be feeling a little wobbly, but a shopping spree now looks like the ideal way to lift your spirits. Remember that when it comes to money, your horoscope speaks of quality, not quantity. It's not what you've got but what you do with it that counts!

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Mars, Jupiter, Venus and Mercury are still aligned with your sign, each in its own way, and represents a combination that integrates action with knowledge and wisdom. Even apparently impulsive behaviour may therefore seem surprisingly sensible. Don't let anyone tell you otherwise!

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
You will probably feel like keeping yourself to yourself, but you have sufficient quiet confidence to deal with whatever social obligations are thrown at you. This means that if you do have a busy social or family weekend ahead you should make as much spare time as you can for quiet contemplation.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Your social prospects are looking consistently lively, but romantic Venus is now definitely going to make you think twice about whether a particular liaison is really for you. Don't feel pressurised by friends into doing anything which goes against the grain.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
The entire range of personal possibilities is about to be extended, much to your satisfaction. Your professional ambitions will remain on the boil, but you may also be making yourself more time for serious social gatherings, building up contacts for the future.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Do yourself a favour and don't accept any unnecessary compromises. It is other people who will have to bend, and if they are incapable of accepting the real you, it is a sign that changes must be made. That doesn't mean, by the way, that you should be unfair.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
The parts of your chart representing business and possessions are strong, so shopping, spending and all types of investment should come top of your agenda. Joint financial arrangements require special attention and whatever is decided now will yield fairly speedy results.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
You are increasingly finding yourself as the person who has to say 'no'. You didn't task to be put in that position and it is not pleasant to think that to others might come to regard you as a repressive force but, if they're sensible, they will appreciate your wisdom.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
You will gain increasing pleasure from friends who are of a rather serious turn of mind. As far as the physical side of life is concerned, you should make a point of getting as fit as possible as soon as you can: remember what they say about the body being the temple of the soul!

Siddaramaiah lashes out at cops for using force against protesters over Sangolli Rayanna installation

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

CONGRESS leader and former Chief Minister Siddaramaiah on Friday lashed out at the police for using force to crack down on protesters over the installation of a statue of Krantiveera Sangolli Rayanna at Peeranwadi in Belagavi.

"The police are using force and caning people who want the statue to be installed. This is unacceptable and I condemn it. I spoke to district incharge minister Ramesh Jarkiholi, the jurisdictional district collector and the police commissioner to sort out this issue carefully," he said. "I urge all supporters who want the statue to be installed to conduct themselves peacefully," he added.

Home Minister Basavaraj Bommai said that Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa had given clear directions on the issue.

Ramesh Jarkiholi held a meeting on Friday with the groups concerned and urged them to sort out the issue amicably. "On Friday, two groups with conflicting interests gathered and the police had to take control. I have spoken to the jurisdictional commissioner, deputy commissioner and police officials. Police bandobast is elaborate and the district authorities have spoken to community leaders on either side. We need to remember Sangolli Rayanna and Shivaji Maharaj were both patriots who fought for this land. Let us not dishonour their names," Jarkiholi said.

Senior minister R Ashoka said, "We took up the issue and discussed it a couple of days ago. No one should take the law into their own hands."

Kannada and Culture minister C T Ravi said, "I would like to ask the people protesting against the statue what their issue is. The CM has given permission and also assured of assistance to install the statue. Sangolli Rayanna was a freedom fighter. I strongly suspect the motives of the protesters. I also suspect the forces that were trying to destabilise the government through the DJ Halli riots are at work here as well."

> The protest by Marathi supporters over the installation of Sangolli Rayanna statue is unpardonable. It's our land, and we don't need anyone's permission to honour the great warrior Rayanna. It's an assault on Kannadiga pride and those defaming our heroes should be taught a lesson. There is no question of compromise on the issue of our land, language and waters

Police chief: Will speak to Marathi groups

POLICE, however, prevented the pro-Marathi activists from installing the statue of Shivaji at the same spot.

Even as the police were trying to pacify the crowd, a group of people allegedly hurled stones on some people who were moving on a two-wheeler holding Kannada flags. The police had to resort to mild lathi-charge to disperse the mob.

Belagavi Police Commissioner K Tyagarajan said steps will be taken to resolve the issue by holding discussions with the Deputy Commissioner and other officials concerned. Deputy Commissioner of Police (Law and Order) Seema Latkar said that attempts are on to hold talks with Marathi groups and defuse the tension.

Council hopefuls push for elections

BANSY KALAPPA @Bengaluru

ELECTIONS to four Legislative Council seats are due since June 30, and candidates are pleading with the authorities to complete the process at the earliest. MLC retiree SV Sankanur, from the Graduates constituency representing Gadag, Dharwad, Karwar and Haveri, met Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa twice and Chief Secretary Vijay Bhaskar, urging them to hold elections with all safeguards.

MLC retiree Puttanna, who represents Teachers constituency spread across 36 assembly constituencies in Bengaluru city, Bengaluru Rural and Ramanagara, has been campaigning briskly. "I will be filing a petition in the High Court on Monday to hold elections as soon as possible," he told TNIE. The three-term winner defected from the JDS to BJP.

With the EC going ahead with Legislative Council elections in other regions, Chief Election Officer Sanjeev Kumar told TNIE, "We are awaiting instructions from New Delhi, which are expected soon."

Meanwhile, preparations for the four seats are hotting up. JDS MLC retiree Chowda Reddy Thupalli from Graduates constituency, who is seeking re-election, said he has been extensively touring his constituency, spread across the districts of Tumakuru, Kolar, Chikkaballapur, Chitradurga and Davanagere.

Sharanappa Mattur, MLC retiree from Teachers constituency spread across the Hyderabad-Karnataka districts, too has been touring the most arid parts of Karnataka.

Experts said the EC can hold elections with all necessary Covid safeguards, because these booths seldom have more than 1,000 voters. Rules can be formulated for social distancing and campaigning. Guidelines have already been framed by the EC, Kumar said.

The BJP will be seeking victory in the four Council seats. State president Nalin Kumar Kateel said they will win all four and emerge the largest party in the Upper House.

The Congress will also try to retain its position as largest party with 29 seats. The JDS would like to retain its hold.

JDS goes digital to monitor flood situation

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

UNLIKE the Congress which has formed teams to tour flood-affected districts in the state, the Janata Dal (Secular) is taking the digital path to take stock of the situation.

On Friday, former Prime Minister and JDS supremo H D Devegowda held a video conference with district and taluk leaders of his party and farmers from Belagavi, Chikkodi, Vijayapura, Bagalkot, Dharwad, Hubballi, Gadag, Haveri and Uttara Kannada.

"People in parts of Karnataka have been struggling due to floods and its aftermath over the last two years, and the government has utterly failed in providing them relief," he said

"Since I am unable to visit these places physically due to the Covid-19 situation, I am holding video conferences to review the situation. Our leaders have stated that relief promised last year hasn't reached those affected even now and in-charge ministers haven't been responding. I will personally provide data to the government on this."

Deve Gowda said that the video conference was just the first step towards highlighting the plight of flood victims, not just from this year, but 2019 too. The party will, he added, tour the state after the pandemic to fight for the farmers' cause.

STATE TO HIT COVID PEAK BY SEPT-END: EXPERTS

'India may see spike with 26L total, 4.5L ongoing cases by next month'

CHETANA BELAGERE @Bengaluru

ON Thursday, Karnataka reported 9,386 Covid-19 positive cases, which was yet another single-day highest, taking the total to 3,09,792. But worryingly, the state has not yet hit the peak. Going by the current indicators, the virus infections are likely to peak by September-end or early October and start plateauing only by the year-end, experts said.

According to a team of researchers at the Indian Institute of Science (IISc), in the "best-case scenario", the country could see a spike with an estimate of 26 lakh total cases and 4.5 lakh ongoing cases by September 30.

Prof Sashikumaar Ganesan, Chairman, Department of Computational and Data Sciences (CDS) and Head, Computational Mathematics Group (CMG), IIsc, who is one of the researchers of this model, said, "We have done a six-dimensional, data-based computational model for epidemics that has been adapted for Covid-19 in the country. Going by the trend and with the data till August 6, we will see the peak by September-end or beginning of October nationally."

Experts said that peaking means the arrival rate of new cases per week (or per day) has attained the maximum and it declines after that. A senior epidemiologist said, "It is difficult for anyone to predict exactly. However, an attempt can be made to estimate it by examining certain trends in the observed data and then extrapolating the trend. Only when the daily Covid toll comes down consistently can one say for sure that it has peaked," he said.

According to Prof Ganesan, in the IISc model, state-wise results are computed with the parameters of the national trend to compare the performance of respective states with the national trend.

Dr T Jacob John, professor emeritus and former head of virology at Christian Medical College, Vellore, told TNIE, "We could look at peaking in three scenarios — highly urbanised, medium urbanised and rural areas. We have noticed that in Karnataka and several other states, it has peaked in highly urbanised and medium urbanised areas. We are yet to see the rise in rural areas. If there is no intervention, the state should see a spike by September."

Experts are, however, divided. While a few say that the plateau is expected towards the end of December, some claim that it could be by October-end.

"More than a peak, Karnataka will have a plateau that will only reduce towards mid-October," said Dr Giridhara R Babu, senior epidemiologist and member of the state advisory committee.

Karnataka's positivity rate jumps to 12 per cent

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

AFTER the shocking 9,000-plus cases on Wednesday, Thursday's tally was not far behind with 8,960 positives, taking the tally to 3,18,752 cases.

The positivity rate in the state jumped to 12 per cent, which is higher than the country's average of 8 per cent. The number of Covid deaths recorded on Thursday stood at 136, with a mortality rate of 1.69 per cent.

Over the last five days, 120-plus deaths are being reported every day, raising concerns over a possible hike in mortality rate. So far, the state has reported a total of 5,368 deaths.

In Bengaluru Urban, after recording 3,000-plus cases for two consecutive days, Thursday's number stood at 2,721 cases and 41 deaths. Bengaluru's total toll is 1,886 deaths with the mortality rate at 1.55 per cent.

You're at risk by delaying surgeries: Docs to patients

IFFATH FATHIMA @Bengaluru

AS Covid-19 cases saw a big jump in August, many patients who had to undergo elective and semi-emergency surgeries have postponed their procedures, scared that they could face severe complications post-surgery because of coronavirus. Some hospitals in Bengaluru have reported postponement of over 100 procedures on patients' request.

The Covid situation is indeed alarming as between August 1 and 26, the city recorded 59,038 cases, with the positivity rate of 15%.

Dr Suri Raju V, Chief Urologist and MD, Regal Hospital, said his hospital postponed over 100 surgeries in August as patients said it being a Covid hospital, they would not want to get their surgeries done yet and they also pointed to the spike in cases in the city. "There are two types of surgeries - elective and semi-emergency. Elective surgeries, like for hernia, asymptomatic kidney stones, appendicitis, gall bladder and prostate, have been postponed. Also, some procedures that are semi-emergency, like the recurring appendix, symptomatic gallbladder and bladder and kidney cancers too have been put off. Elective surgeries can be postponed by up to three months, but not some semi-emergency cases," he said.

Dr Jagadish Hiremath, CEO, Ace Suhas Hospital, pointed to a case where a patient who had postponed a gallbladder surgery had to undergo an emergency procedure for sepsis after the gallbladder ruptured. "What would have earlier been a simple planned elective surgery became an extremely complicated emergency procedure to save the patient. It is important for patients who have opted for postponement of surgeries to go for follow-ups with their doctors, so that any emergency can be tackled in time. Almost all types of elective surgeries are getting postponed. At our hospital, 50-plus surgeries were postponed this month."

> Dr Jagadish Hiremath, CEO, Ace Suhas Hospital

Dr Gunasekar Vuppalapati, Senior Plastic Surgeon and CMD of GVG Invivo Hospital, said they have performed only nine procedures this month, as compared to 55 last year. "A 19-year-old, who had his central face shattered in a head-on bike collision which I fixed along with my team of oculoplastic and ENT surgeons during Lockdown 1.0 is still waiting to get his teeth fixed as all his front teeth were broken."

While Dr Mahesh Chikkachannappa, Sr. Consultant - General, Laparoscopic and Bariatric Surgery, Aster CMI Hospital, said, "I have seen 8 to 12 cases in the last three to four months where patients delayed their elective surgeries and their situation turned critical."

Siblings buy 3K high-quality masks for cops

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

IN a touching gesture, a brother-sister duo raised Rs 3 lakh to ensure officers with the Bengaluru City Police are safe while going about their jobs. They ordered 3,000 high-quality masks with the money and handed them over to Police Commissioner Kamal Pant at his office on Friday.

M Amaan Asim, a 19-year-old student of Ashoka University, was at the forefront of the campaign #MaskOurWarriors on behalf of Humane Trust, an NGO. Amaan told The New Indian Express, "I kept reading about cops testing Covid-positive in Bengaluru. I wanted to do something for them and decided that a mask that is superior in quality would be very useful to them." His sister, Aamina Asim, joined hands.

"The police force strength in the city stands at 10 lakh, and initially, we had set a target of collecting Rs 10 lakh towards purchasing high-quality masks for them. With the help of corporates and individuals, we were able to collect Rs 3 lakh," Amaan said.

The duo is keen on continuing the drive until they collect Rs 10 lakh. "We need more volunteers to come forward and donate," they said. Anyone interested in chipping in can reach Amaan at 99007-81977 or tweet to @humanetouchind.

AS coronavirus cases are increasing among Covid warriors in Mysuru district, the dedicated government-run Covid Care Centre for the frontline workers at Vikram Jeshtha Hospital in the city is set to increase its bed capacity to 200 in the coming days.

The centre has been a blessing for Mysuru's Covid warriors. This abandoned hospital converted into a CCC has seen over 202 admissions so far. As cases are increasing, the bed capacity will be more than doubled from 97 to 200, officials said. Authorities have repaired and put to work five ventilator beds, oxygen access and an ambulance that were lying idle since the hospital's closure.

The Mysuru Urban Development Authority (MUDA) was behind converting the closed hospital into a CCC. It is now being run with the help of medical staff from Mysuru Association of Hospitals, Nursing Homes, Clinics and Diagnostic Centres.

Of the 202 treated here, police personnel top the list with 135 admissions. Second in the list are frontline health workers, including two private hospital employees and 37 health department staffers.

The centre has also treated 18 family members or dependents of Covid warriors on compassionate grounds. Three employees, who were tasked with converting the hospital, too tested positive and were treated at the same centre.

Centenarian freedom fighter triumphs over Covid

RAGHOTTAM KOPPAR @Gadag

A centenarian freedom fighter, Venkosa Bhandage, has defeated Covid-19 and is tipped to become the oldest person to win the battle against coronavirus in the state. In the true national spirit, he waved the national flag after he tested Covid-negative.

The 104-year-old freedom fighter, a resident of Gajendragad in Gadag district, tested positive on August 7 after developing a flu-like condition the previous day. Earlier in July, 14 members of his family tested Covid-positive, but he was not infected.

Considering his age, doctors suggested home isolation for two to three weeks. Now, he is Covid-free.

The announcement of his recovery from Covid-19 was a jubilant moment for the family and neighbours too. With a smile on his face, he told the people who had gathered near his house, "Covid isn't as tough as British."

> I got the infection from one of my family members and was put on home quarantine. Doctors took care of me. I was given an apple daily and some injections. Now, I tell people not to worry even if they test positive, and ask them to be strong, and follow doctors' advice to get well soon

He said, "I got the infection from one of my family members and was put on home quarantine. Doctors took care of me. I was given an apple daily and some injections. Now, I tell people not to worry even if they test positive, and ask them to be strong, and follow doctors' advice to get well soon."

His grandson Gopi Bhandage said, "After his recovery, my grandfather wants to tell people that Covid is not a deadly disease and it is like a flu which can be cured. Many elderly people are scared of Covid-19. His confidence and will power is so strong that even during treatment, he used to tell doctors that he had fought many battles in his life and the Covid cannot kill him easily."

Gadag district recorded 169 Covid-positive cases till Thursday midnight, taking the total tally to 4,795. As many as three deaths were reported and the total toll stands at 74 now. The district has 1,342 active cases.

Under quarantine, really? Many BBMP engineers use 'sick' ploy to skip work

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

FOR the last couple of days, Gopal M, a resident of Basavanagudi, has been trying to contact the ward engineer to get the road in his area repaired. But each time he calls up, the engineer says he is "under quarantine and cannot come out".

Madhu M, a resident of RR Nagar, too faces a similar situation. She wanted to get the BBMP to clear the area of garbage. "But when I call, I am told that the engineer is under quarantine. It has been a month now. At least, the engineer can depute some junior to attend to the problem," she said.

It is not just citizens, but even the top brass at the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) are scratching their heads to put an end to this menace. They have a hunch that the officials are faking their quarantine status to skip work.

Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike Commissioner N Manjunath Prasad and Mayor M Goutham Kumar now want to go the corporate way and ask officials skipping work to produce medical certificates if they are on medical leave. Not just that, the quarantine status of these officials will also be cross-verified with data from the Covid War Room, official sources said.

"Across the city, civic works have either stalled or going on at a very slow pace. The engineers, who are responsible for these works, claim to be under home quarantine. We can't do anything about it," a senior Palike official said.

"Some of them may be genuinely under quarantine, but so many others are not, and are using it as an excuse. From now, they will be verified. Already there has been a delay because of the lockdown. No more extra time can be given. No laxity or excuses will be entertained," he added.

Civic works in Bengaluru have either stalled or going on at a very slow pace

As Covid-19 cases saw a big jump in August, many patients who had to undergo elective and semi-emergency surgeries have postponed their procedures, scared that they could face severe complications post-surgery because of coronavirus.

'NEET, JEE will be on schedule'

BENGALURU: Even as the Opposition continues to demand postponement of the Joint Entrance Examination (JEE) and National Eligibility-cum-Entrance Test (NEET), BJP State General Secretary and MLC N Ravi Kumar said the government has already taken a decision in this regard, and the entrance examinations will be held as scheduled.

Deputy CM Dr C N Ashwathnarayan had, on Thursday, stated, postponing the exams is not in the best interest of students and it should be held as scheduled. The government has expressed confidence of conducting the examinations by taking precautionary measures in the backdrop of Covid-19. ENS

DySP suicide: Cases to be filed against George, IPS officers

Court rejects CBI claim there is no evidence of abetment

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

IN a setback to former Congress cabinet minister KJ George, a Special Court in the city on Friday passed an order to register a case and issue summons against George and two senior IPS officers, in relation to the suicide of DySP MK Ganapathy.

Judge TN Inavally of the Special Court, set up to try criminal cases against elected representatives, stated that there is scope for investigation in the Ganapathy suicide case. George is accused number one, IGP Pronab Mohanty, then IGP Lokayukta and at present on Central deputation, is accused number two, and DGP, Home Guards & Civil Defence A M Prasad (then ADGP, State Intelligence) is accused number three. The judge ordered that a case be registered under section 306 read with 34 of IPC (abetment of suicide with common intention).

Ganapathy, who was working as DySP in Mangaluru, died by suicide on July 7, 2016, at Sree Vinayak Lodge in Madikeri. Before committing suicide, he had alleged in an interview to some local TV channels that the three accused were responsible for his death. Madikeri Town Police had registered an unnatural death report (UDR).

The order was passed based on a complaint filed by Nehal Ganapathy, son of the deceased officer, while rejecting the opinion of the CBI investigation officer (IO) in the closure report that, there is no evidence to show that accused no. 1 to 3 abetted the suicide of Ganapathy.

Dismissing the prayer made by the IO to close the case, the Special Court took cognisance of the offences, saying, "The complainant has made sufficient grounds to take cognisance of the offence on the basis of materials available in the closure report filed by the CBI. On the other hand, the IO has failed to make any grounds to accept his opinion in the closure report."

On the family's request, the case was handed over to the Criminal Investigation Department (CID), which filed a B report and gave a clean chit to George, Mohanty and Prasad. Unhappy with the report, Ganapathy's parents had moved the Supreme Court, following which the case was taken up by CBI.

George, meanwhile, is learnt to have said that he is open to any investigation in the case.

HC: Implement Transgender Persons Act

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Friday directed the state government to take steps for implementation of the Transgender Persons (Protection of Rights) Act, which came into force towards the end of 2019.

A division bench comprising Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka and Justice Ashok S Kinagi passed the order after hearing a plea seeking reservation for transgenders for appointment in the Police Department.

The Public Interest Litigation was filed by Sangama, an organisation working for transgenders and one Nisha Gulur.

Considering the issues raised in the writ petition, the bench issued rule nisi, saying that the steps taken by the state will have to be monitored.

"The petitioner invited our attention to the directions issued by the apex court in National Legal Services Authority vs Union of India in relation to the rights of transgenders and to the provisions of the Transgender Persons (Protection of Rights) Act, 2019. The state government should take steps to implement the provisions of the Act and file an affidavit," the bench said, while adjourning the hearing to October 1, 2020.

Dalit man murdered in V'pura village

MAHESH M GOUDAR
@Vijayapura

A 28-year-old Dalit man was allegedly murdered by upper-caste men for sitting with them in front of a temple in Budihal village near Sindagi in Vijayapura recently.

The deceased, Anil Ingalagi, was a resident of Budihal and a social worker by profession.

According to a complaint filed by the deceased's father, "The two men from the dominant caste fought with Anil for sitting with them in front of the temple on the evening on August 24. The two accused, Siddu Biradar (25) and Santosh Hirlakund (23), used expletives against my son and threatened him. After fighting with him for a couple of days, the duo attacked my son and brutally murdered him while he was having breakfast at a roadside eatery."

An FIR has been registered under relevant sections of Indian Penal Code (IPC) and SC/ST Atrocities Act at the Sindagi Police Station. Within 24 hours of registering the FIR, the police nabbed the two accused, who are currently under judicial custody.

SP Anupam Agrawal said, "The primary investigation shows that the duo took revenge against the 28-year-old for sitting with them in front of the temple."

COVID-19: ASYMPTOMATICS HAVE HIGHER VIRAL LOAD, SAYS STUDY

CDFD explains why transmission rate of Covid among Indians is higher than death rate

V NILESH @Hyderabad

AS discussions rage over high infection rate and low mortality of Covid-19 patients in India and whether asymptomatic Covid-19 patients can spread the infection, a significant finding has emerged from a study by researchers from Hyderabad-based Centre for DNA Fingerprinting and Diagnostics (CDFD), in collaboration with researchers from National Centre for Biological Sciences (NCBS) and Nizam's Institute of Medical Sciences (NIMS).

CDFD is one of the testing centres in Hyderabad for samples collected from suspected symptomatic and asymptomatic Covid-19 patients. For the study, the researchers analysed more than 200 samples of the novel Coronavirus and their genomic sequences.

They found that samples collected from asymptomatic cases had much higher viral load (low Cycle threshold value), than the samples collected from symptomatic cases of Covid-19.

They mention that this can explain why the transmission rate of Covid-19 among Indian population is much higher, as compared to the death rate.

It may be mentioned here that a majority of Covid-19 cases detected are asymptomatic. Even in case of CDFD, most of the samples they received were of asymptomatic persons.

As the asymptomatic Covid-19 patients are high in number and according to CDFD study, they carry higher viral load than symptomatic patients, it is possible that the transmission of virus from asymptomatic patients is also occurring and that too at a high rate. Moreover, as the asymptomatic cases are high, death rate is expected to be low.

Type of virus and mutations

Researchers also report that most of the novel Coronavirus samples belonged to one major clade (group, in layman's terms) - 20B and two minor clades - 19A and 20A.

VIRUS CLAIMS LIFE OF CONG MP

Chennai: Even as Tamil Nadu reported 5,996 fresh Covid cases and 102 deaths on Friday, yet another political leader in the State lost his life to the virus. Congress MP from Kanniyakumari and businessman H Vasanthakumar (70), who was admitted to a private hospital in Chennai on August 10 after testing positive for the virus, passed away on Friday. A statement from RK Venkatasalam, Director Medical Services, Apollo Hospitals, said Vasanthakumar was being treated at the critical care unit for severe Covid pneumonia by a team of doctors. "Despite all active medical measures, his condition deteriorated gradually due to Covid complications and he passed away. We join Mr Vasanthakumar's family members in profoundly mourning him," the statement said. The fresh cases and number of deaths pushed up the Statewide tally to 4,09,238 and toll to 7,050.

GOLD SMUGGLING

NIA: First four consignments used diplomatic channel

TOBY ANTONY @Kochi

A FEW hours after Customs officials at Thiruvananthapuram airport seized the diplomatic baggage containing 30kg of gold on July 5, prime accused Swapna Suresh and Sandeep Nair had reached Kochi where they stayed at a hotel at Perumanoor for two days.

Swapna revealed this in the confession statement she gave to the Customs following her arrest.

She said when the consignment containing gold was seized, she and her family, along with a lawyer, reached Varkala from where the lawyer parted with them.

"Sandeep joined us at Varkala. My family and I came to Kochi the same night and stayed at the hotel. We met another lawyer and gave a Vakalath (take up the case for us). After staying at Ernakulam and nearby places, the details of which cannot be recollected, we escaped to Bengaluru from where we were arrested by the NIA," she said in the statement.

As for her employment at the UAE Consulate, Swapna said she worked as the secretary of the consul-general till September 2019 after which she resigned on his directive.

"His excellency was expecting a transfer and promised me to take with him. Though I had resigned, I was in regular touch with him and he used to avail my services as usual and unofficially," she said.

Meanwhile, the NIA investigation has revealed that the first four consignments containing gold were sent via the diplomatic channel in the name of Muhammad, a West Bengal native. Consignments five till 18 were sent in the name of Dawood, a UAE citizen. The 19th consignment was sent in Dubai native Hashim's name, while the 20th and 21st consignments were sent in the name of Kaipamangalam native Faisal Fareed. It was the 21st consignment that was seized by the Customs officials.

"Of all the consignments, one was sent from Abu Dhabi and the rest from Dubai. Our probe team, which visited the UAE, verified the identity of some of the persons who sent the consignments. We suspect some of the consignments were sent using fake identity. Further probe is on in this regard," said a source.

There is push to develop dynamic def industry

"WE expect participation of all the major international defence companies. Also, this time, a rise into the number of participants from India is expected with the push for Make in India," said an official in the national capital on the condition of anonymity.

However, Air Marshal BK Pandey (retired), former Chief of Indian Air Force Training Command, Bengaluru, feels many companies from India and abroad are unlikely to attend the event this time. "We should wait till this pandemic is under control," he said.

India has been one of the largest defence equipment importers for several years and the government has been working to offset this imbalance. There is a push to develop a dynamic, robust and competitive indigenous defence industry, including aerospace and naval shipbuilding industry to cater to the needs of Armed Forces with quality products, thus reducing the dependence on imports and making the country a part of the global defence value chains.

Under the 'Atmanirbhar Bharat Package', the aim is to provide a focused, structured and significant thrust to defence production capabilities of the country for self-reliance and exports. The government is aiming to achieve a turnover of Rs 1,75,000 crore ($25 bn) including export of Rs 35,000 crore ($5 bn) in aerospace and defence goods and services by 2025.

OPENING UP

Panel to decide on mine lease renewal

IT was decided in the meeting that a committee headed by the Secretary of Mines, and including stakeholders' representatives, will be formed to decide on Karnataka's request for a higher premium and lease renewal of NMDC whose 50-year lease period ended in 2018.

"As per our 2015 amendments, there is no provision to renew leases, but PSUs can be given new leases for mines on a fixed premium by the government. Karnataka has sought for a higher premium citing that states will face revenue losses. A committee will be formed to take a judicious view of the matter and give its decision in three months," Joshi said, adding that in the period, as per Yediyurappa's request, 22.5 % over and above the fixed royalty of 15 per cent will be paid to the state. "Whatever the committee's decision on premium and royalty is, it will be applied retrospectively," Joshi said.

On the Karnataka government's request to provide land for industrial purpose in the 13,000 acres held by Bharat Gold Mines Ltd in Kolar Gold Fields, the state has been asked to complete a physical survey in three months while the Mineral Exploration Corporation Ltd will conduct exploration in six months in areas that haven't been explored to see if any natural minerals are available. "If any minerals are available, then the state can auction it and benefit out of it and, if it is found not fit for mining, then the land will be given to the Industries Department for an industrial park," Joshi said.

Coal quality issues, coordination with Maharashtra and Odisha for coal pricing and missing coal, etc., were also taken up in the meeting with the assurance of the Central Government's intervention to sort them out.

SSLC-PU board merger: Crucial meeting to be held next week

THE SSLC Board, which is looking after the modalities of the merger, is expected to submit a proposal with administrative details and a meeting is scheduled in this regard next week, a source confirmed.

The unified board is meant to ease the administrative difficulties that the PU Board is facing in conducting examinations. For instance, while the SSLC Board, which is relatively more bigger, generates its own revenue, while the PU Board relies on the government to fund the examination procedure. Now, with the merger, the fund management will be resolved.

Secondly, the SSLC Board has an entire contingent of administrators across districts and taluks, such as the DDPIs and BEOs, while the PU Board has none and relies on them for conducting examinations. Exams would be conducted efficiently and incidents of paper leakage will reduce.

Thirdly, the PUE department always had to check with the Primary and Secondary Education Department or the SSLC Board before conducting examinations. Now, with a single examination head, coordination will be better.

As per sources, the PU Board will head the new body and there will be no need for recruiting more personnel for micro-managing PUC examinations. Exams would be conducted efficiently and incidents of paper leakage will reduce.

No more punishment transfer for teachers

Kumar also announced that the government has revoked punishment transfers for teachers. Further, he said those who were subject to punishment transfers last academic year, will be offered a transfer on priority this time even as he called the latest transfer policy 'teacher-friendly' and one that has been introduced to "offer permanent solutions" to issues surrounding transfers of teachers. He said government schools were being developed as model schools and the best performing schools will be awarded. Also, best teachers will be recognised and felicitated, and their teaching methods will be replicated in other schools.

Edu council to be set up

As the State is looking to be the first to successfully implement the National Education Policy, the Primary and Secondary Education Department will have another administrative head to revamp it. "In view of rejuvenating the primary and secondary education system, an education council will be created," Minister Kumar said. Details regarding its constitution were not revealed.

DJ HALLI RIOTS: K'TAKA HC ASKS PEOPLE TO SUBMIT EVIDENCE OF DAMAGE

"WE propose to appoint Justice Kempanna as Claims Commissioner in terms of the Apex Court order. Consequential orders will have to be issued to ensure that the Claims Commissioner can discharge his duties properly...The liability should be borne by the actual perpetrators of the crime and finally determined by this court after hearing the parties, on receiving the report from the Commissioner", the bench said. It also directed the State Government to issue notification appointing Justice Kempanna within a week after the order is uploaded on the high court website.

The government was also directed to give wide publicity about the appointment of the claims commissioner and also calling upon people whose properties are damaged to enable them to submit details for damage assessment. The notice should be published inviting video clippings, photographs or any other material relating to the incident from the public. The police machinery and government should also submit similar details, if any, to the Claims Commissioner, the bench said.

Considering the situation due to Covid-19, the bench permitted the commissioner to conduct proceedings through video-conference. This apart, the bench issued several directions to the government on providing required staff, infrastructure, vehicles, fixing of remuneration and other monetary benefits to the commissioner.

In the event of summons to be issued or any further directions are needed, the commissioner can submit a report before the Registrar (Judicial), the bench said, adding that the government has to appoint assessors with the consent of the commissioner.

3 cases under UAPA

The Advocate-General informed the court that they have invoked the provisions of the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act (UAPA) in three of the 70 FIRs registered.

State to file objections on plea seeking probe by NIA

On a PIL seeking directions to transfer the investigation to NIA, as local police are also victims of the incident, the bench directed the State to file objections in relation to compliance of Section 6 (1)(ii) of the NIA Act. As per this provision, if the UAPA is invoked, the State should submit a report to the Centre which, in turn, will take a decision to entrust the probe to an external agency.

Was appointed to instill confidence: Kempanna

YATHIRAJU @Bengaluru

"THE High Court has taken cognisance of the properties damaged, both private and public, and appointed me as claims commissioner. It is to instill confidence in the minds of people and give a signal to society. I feel it is a recognition of my service and I am required to do justice to the victims," said Justice H S Kempanna, who is the first claims commissioner in the state. He has been appointed to assess the damage caused to properties during the DJ Halli riots on August 11.

Justice Kempanna, who is a former judge of the high court, told The New Indian Express, "My job is to assess and submit the report. The court will then take action on the report to award compensation."

People should come forward with clear evidence and only then they will they get compensation, he said.

Born on April 4, 1952, Justice Kempanna enrolled as an advocate on May 28, 1976 in Bengaluru. He practised in civil, criminal and constitutional matters. He served as District and Sessions Judge and Principal District and Sessions Judge for 17 years from 1993 at Dharwad, Mangaluru, Chikkamagaluru, Bengaluru Rural and Urban districts. He also served as Law Secretary for three-and-a-half years. He was appointed as the Additional Judge of the Karnataka High Court on March 12, 2010. He retired as a High Court judge on April 4, 2014.

He headed a one-man commission appointed by the state government in 2014 to look into illegal denotification of land at Arkavathy Layout. In August 2017, he submitted the report of over 1,800 pages to the state government, which is yet to table it.

UNFAIR TO DUMP CENTRE'S GST DEFAULT ON STATES

The Goods & Services Tax (GST) Council, chaired by Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman, met on Thursday to sort out the pricky problem of the huge backlog of compensation to states. The meeting unfortunately has confounded the confusion. The crux of the problem is that compensation has not been paid as the Central government has not been able to meet revenue targets. GST collections have dropped drastically, with the widespread lockdowns freezing economic activity. When the GST became law, state governments were assured they would be compensated for five years till 2022 in case the collections fell short. The finance minister has now refused to shoulder the burden, blaming it on the coronavirus outbreak and terming it "an act of God". Sitharaman said the shortfall in the current year may be a whopping ₹2.35 lakh crore. For the last financial year, the Centre had released ₹1.65 lakh crore to the states, while the cess collected was only ₹95,444 crore.

The 'solution'—asking state governments to borrow to tide over the shortfall—is rubbing salt in old wounds. The states have been offered two options. One is that the Union government will arrange a line of credit for the entire sum of ₹2.35 lakh crore to the states, with the guarantee that this will have to be repaid only from the sixth year, i.e. 2022 onwards, from the compensation cess fund. The other option is to get the RBI to arrange a loan of ₹97,000 crore at a 'reasonable interest rate', and the principal and interest can be repaid after 2022 from the GST cess collections.

The states are rightly appalled at the stand of the Union government. Many chief ministers have pointed out that it was obligatory on the part of the Centre to pay them the compensation GST and if anyone has to borrow, it has to be the Union government that must raise the loans to pay the states. On the other hand, the Centre has claimed that it is under no obligation to pay compensation if there is a shortfall in GST collections. On the face of it, there seems to be a breach of sovereign guarantee by the Centre, which under the GST scheme has to ensure equitable distribution of tax revenue to the states. The Central Goods & Services Act that came into force on 1 July 2017 guarantees compensation for any revenue shortfall till 2022 if revenues fall below 14% annual growth since July 2017.

The Union finance minister blaming the pandemic for the mess is also not tenable as the GST 'defaults' began in 2019. For three consecutive months last year—August, September and October—GST collections fell substantially before picking up marginally in November. This was when compensation to the states was held back, creating a domino effect. It is also this period last year when the economic slowdown that began two years ago started having a visible impact, with the GDP growth rate first slipping to 4.4% and then 4.1% for the last two quarters in calendar year 2019. While setting up the GST regime and its targets, the finance ministry had not seen this coming.

It also appears that instead of finding a solution, the Centre has been selectively leveraging GST payouts to arm-twist the states into submission, especially those ruled by opposition parties. This issue has been ever-so-often voiced by West Bengal's Mamata Banerjee. The federal structure of the Constitution envisages the parallel existence of the Union government with autonomous state governments. However, such a scheme can only exist if the states are financially autonomous and not beholden to the Centre. If this trend is not reversed, there is serious danger of India, like many others, becoming a unitary state.

It is not only the opposition-ruled states that are staring at a financial crisis. In fighting the Covid-19 pandemic, the states are on the front line. Many governments are on their knees, not able to pay salaries to their employees. In Maharashtra, doctors of state-run hospitals have threatened to go on strike as they have not been paid for months. In BJP-ruled Karnataka, the state's home minister Basavaraj Bommai said Karnataka had achieved 71.61% GST collections despite the pandemic and demanded it be compensated ₹13,764 crore for the last four months. The states have pointed out that it is easier, and with softer interest rates, for the Centre to raise the loans. Overall, the already stressed Centre-state relations are being strained further. Both law and ethics demand that the Centre, as the sovereign guarantor of the GST regime, raise and deliver the backlog due to the states.

In bilateral FTA engagements as well as in the WTO, partner countries are unlikely to accept India's export-oriented stance, while its own market is largely protected behind high tariffs

IMPLICATIONS OF INDIA'S RISING AGRI EXPORTS

BISWAJIT DHAR

Professor, Centre for Economic Studies and Planning, School of Social Sciences, JNU

AMIT BANDRE

India's export business has been among the worst hit by the ongoing pandemic. In the first four months of the current financial year, namely, from April to July, merchandise exports have fallen by over 30% over the corresponding period in 2019. But amidst this gloom, there is cheer in officialdom that exports of agricultural commodities have increased. In July, several agricultural commodities, especially of food grains and oils, showed a spurt in exports. As compared to the levels in July 2019, exports of non-basmati rice rose by 48%, other cereals by 205% and oil seeds by nearly 33%. If we go back to the figures of the first quarter, namely April to June, for which further details are available, the trends in exports of food grains and oils become somewhat clearer. During this period, exports of several food grains increased significantly over the corresponding period in 2019. Non-basmati rice exports increased by over 56%, wheat by 130%, and pulses by nearly 28%.

Contributing to these trends are two factors; one, increase in supplies due to record food grains production, and two, deregulation of agricultural markets effected by the promulgation of three ordinances. The amendment of the Essential Commodities Act effectively deregulated the market for food grains, among others. The two other ordinances, the Farming Produce Trade and Commerce (Promotion and Facilitation) Ordinance, 2020 and The Farmers (Empowerment and Protection) Agreement on Price Assurance and Farm Services Ordinance, 2020 were introduced, according to the government, to scout for new markets, boost exports and double farm incomes.

Although the implications of these ordinances have been discussed threadbare, the ramifications of the emphasis on export-orientation of Indian agriculture have not been considered. This is a fundamental shift, for over the past five decades, agricultural policies have focused on the realisation of two critical objectives: food security, at the household level and for the country as a whole, and protection of rural livelihoods. The significance of this policy orientation of agriculture was realised even more during the country's tryst with economic liberalisation from the early 1990s, which overlapped with India joining the World Trade Organization (WTO).

One of the most contentious issues in the WTO has been the liberalisation of the global market for agricultural commodities, an agenda supported by the US and the EU. India's stance in this regard was effectively articulated by the then Commerce Minister, Pranab Mukherjee, who argued in the 1994 Ministerial Meeting which launched the WTO that the Government of India was "firmly committed to protecting the interests of our farmers who constitute the country's life-line and to the objective of ensuring food security for our people". By adopting this stance, the government was able to impose high tariffs on commodities that are vital for protecting domestic food security and rural livelihoods, and which continue till date. If such high tariffs had not been imposed, global agri-business could have easily swamped India's markets by exporting subsidised products from both the US and the EU, as they did in many other developing countries.

> Although the recent ordinances that deregulate agricultural markets have been analysed extensively, the ramifications of the emphasis on export-orientation have not been considered

In the subsequent negotiations held for furthering the trade liberalisation agenda in the WTO, India, along with a group of developing countries (the G-33), strongly articulated the view that food security, rural livelihoods and rural development were the primary objectives of agriculture in developing countries. The G-33 argued that additional policy instruments must be agreed to by the WTO members for furthering these objectives. This position became the effective counter to the pressures brought by the US, the EU and other agricultural exporters for unbridled opening up of agricultural markets.

India maintained its longstanding policy focus on agriculture while negotiating bilateral free trade agreements (FTAs). This enabled the government to protect domestic markets from imports despite engaging with agricultural exporters like Thailand, Malaysia and Vietnam. Several ongoing FTA negotiations have not progressed simply because India has remained steadfast in protecting its domestic agricultural market, especially its small farmers from import competition.

The implications of the change in agricultural policies being ushered in by the government are not difficult to fathom. In India's bilateral FTA engagements as well as in the WTO, partner countries are unlikely to accept New Delhi's export-oriented stance, while its own market remains largely protected behind high tariffs. But before comprehensively opening India's market to imports, the government must have a plan in place to sustain domestic food security and also protect the livelihoods of the almost 60% of the workforce that is directly or indirectly dependent on agriculture.

NEP 2020 IS A GAME-CHANGER, NOW IMPLEMENT IT

K LAKSHMINARAYANA

Educationist & ex-commissioner of Collegiate and Technical Education in erstwhile Andhra

The National Education Policy (NEP) 2020 could not have come a day too soon. It replaced the extant policy introduced 34 years ago, which had remained stuck in first gear for about two decades. The world has changed very rapidly in that time. Our educational needs have also changed. We are facing a critical time when questioning intelligently, challenging rigorously, debating constructively and deciding impartially about the education sector has been a felt need. The NEP, which seeks to provide a comprehensive framework for school and higher education in the country, answers this need.

The NEP promises to address the twin problems of our education system, namely, rote learning and the disconnect between education and life. Prime Minister Narendra Modi, while addressing a conclave on the NEP, highlighted how it focuses on the shift in approach from 'what to think' to 'how to think' and how it transforms the 'intent' and 'content' of the education sector with emphasis on integrating 'local' and 'global', ultimately laying the foundation for a 'New India'. These objectives no doubt are transformational in nature.

The NEP proposes to change the existing school curricular structure. It seeks to replace the 10+2 structure with a 5+3+3+2 structure, thus roping children from ages three to five into the formal education system. The NEP also recognises the importance of learning in the mother tongue at least till Class 5. A mission for foundational literacy and numeracy, free breakfasts in government schools, vocational education from Class 6 along with internships and a redesign of board examinations are some of the key initiatives for school education.

The thrust on early vocational education has its detractors. They argue that it will weaken the students academically and perpetuate hereditary occupations. But their argument is weak. It is proven that technological advantages in vocational education help students of all sections and such training is in no way detrimental to academic excellence.

The NEP aims to focus on skill development including physical education. A major reform is four-year undergraduate courses with multiple entry and exit options and a credit transfer system proposed to be introduced in 20 Institutes of Eminence (IOEs) from the 2020-21 academic year. The NEP also aims to bridge the engineering and liberal arts worlds. Another proposal is the establishment of a model multidisciplinary education and research university in every district. This is a bold initiative but it will be a non-starter in some states where the governments have carved out very small districts for political reasons. Affiliations to universities have lost charm due to overload. The NEP seeks to abolish this system. This is a much-needed reform.

We have admitted misfits into the teaching profession for too long. To address the problem, the NEP seeks to put in place a robust teacher recruitment system. The other significant reform is weeding out teacher education institutions. They hardly serve the purpose for which they were established. They need to go.

For the use and integration of technology, and to ensure equitable use of online and digital education, an autonomous body known as the National Educational Technology Forum will be created to provide a platform for the free exchange of ideas and processes on the use of technology to enhance teaching and learning.

> The world has changed very rapidly in 34 years. Our educational needs have also changed. The NEP 2020 answers these changed needs ... But reforms in education are not easy. There are too many players in the game. Academicians and education administrators are the hardest to convince. The case of politicians is no better. They believe that the policy is self-propelling, which can never be true

The NEP also proposes a bold prescription to move educational institutions to the path of self-assessment and voluntary declaration, freeing them from yearly inspections. The 'light but tight' regulatory approach—a single, lean body with four verticals for standards-setting, funding, accreditation and regulation—is a radical reform. Arts, science, technical and teacher education will be under its fold, replacing many existing regulatory bodies. Top foreign universities will be allowed to set up campuses in India. There shall be a National Research Foundation with a comprehensive approach to transform research culture in all Higher Education Institutions (HEIs).

The one change that has brooked no delay is renaming the Ministry of Human Resources Development as the Ministry of Education. The NEP proposes to implement the policy in a phased manner with the optional sequencing of 100 action points. The National Testing Agency will introduce a pilot version of the Common Entrance Test by December 2020, which will be the basis for admissions to all the IOEs and the Central Universities in 2021. In the decade of 2030-40, the entire policy will be in an operational mode.

Education is a concurrent subject. Therefore, operationalising the proposals under the NEP hinges on the establishment of suitable regulations by both the Centre and states. The NEP proposes to strengthen and empower the Central Advisory Board of Education in which the education ministers of all the states are members. The mechanism has been well-thought-out, but much depends on the conviction of the political executives of the states and the education functionaries across the country.

Reforms in education are not easy. There are too many players in the game and to motivate them in a particular direction is a stupendous task. Academicians and education administrators are the hardest to convince. Rooted as they are in their past, education for them is etched in self-replication. Therefore, they are unlikely change agents. But in the absence of a choice of starting on a clean slate, the focus has to be on how to identify, prepare and retrain education leaders such as vice-chancellors, principals, headmistresses, registrars, etc.

The case of political masters is no better. They believe that the policy is self-propelling, which can never be true. It requires strong political will and robust wisdom to operationalise the reforms. How many political bosses in states have the necessary educational foundation and sagacity to drive the reforms is the moot question. But chief ministers must find one open-minded, tenacious and educated minister in their states to implement the reforms. If we succeed in doing this, the NEP will take off beautifully and pave the way to realise the dream of a 'New India'.

Need a Gandhi to lead Cong

Congress leaders bask under the shade of the Gandhi family. Individually they are of no consequence. Hence they demand that one of the family members lead the party. Now, the Congress as a single party is no match to the BJP. The best option is to get as many seats as possible and galvanise regional parties to form a coalition government. So the need of the hour is not to squabble, but to iron out internal differences and offer a credible alternative to the nation.

Towards self-reliance

The prime minister's push for self-reliance in the defence sector is a step in the right direction though long overdue. However a lot more needs to be done by way of creation of infrastructure, an adequate fiscal stimulus and measures to ease the cash crunch, in addition to improving ease of doing business, if we are to achieve an Atmanirbhar Bharat.

The PM's decision to restrict import of defence material to boost domestic industry is most welcome. He has allotted ₹20,000 for the next five years for the same. He must also spend liberally on sectors like health and education and towards alleviation of poverty.

Highly objectionable claim

This is with reference to Police associations, bureaucrats seek action against TV editor for hate story (Aug 28). The claim of the Editor-in-Chief of Sudarshan News that a large number of Muslim candidates are clearing UPSC exams of late is highly objectionable. By calling it bureaucracy jihad, he is questioning the UPSC and the government. The Centre should take suitable action.

UPSC and hypocrisy

The Sudarshan News head has been criticised by many babus. One of them has been quoted as saying that "by casting aspersions on the integrity of a body like the UPSC, he is spreading disaffection" for the Constitution. What happened to those opposing action against Prashant Bhushan? Unlike Bhushan's random accusations against the SC, that Muslim candidates are getting disproportionately high marks in UPSC interviews is a specific allegation. If untrue, why not refute it with data? Everyone has their biases, but we should at least try to be consistent.

Digital Health Mission: Over 55K IDs created

Health IDs can be created by providing basic information such as full name, year of birth, gender and mobile number, says the NHA

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @New Delhi

IN less than 15 days since Prime Minister Narendra Modi unveiled the ambitious National Digital Health Mission (NDHM) on Independence Day this year, health IDs of about 55,700 citizens have been created so far, officials said.

To begin with, the initiative has been started in six Union Territories, including Andaman & Nicobar Islands, Chandigarh, Dadra & Nagar Haveli and Daman & Diu, Ladakh, Lakshadweep and Puducherry.

Though the National Health Authority (NHA), which is operationalising the NDHM, refused to share the break up of IDs created across these six UTs, officials insisted that with the three core platforms being made operational now the registrations have been growing rapidly.

According to the details shared by the NHA, health IDs can be created by providing basic information that includes full name, year of birth, gender and either a mobile number or an Aadhaar number.

Most people with smartphones or access to the internet and computer are expected to self-enrol and create their health ID through the official health ID portal. Healthcare providers will also assist citizens in creating health IDs.

"This has been especially ensured to ensure access and inclusivity for all, including the elderly, digitally illiterate, and those without mobile phones," said the NHA. "Every health ID must be created only after educating the individuals regarding the benefits of the Health ID and obtaining the explicit and informed consent of the individuals."

In response to queries by this newspaper, NHA officials explained that sharing one's health ID with their participating healthcare provider will ensure that they can share the patients' health information with the patient digitally.

Since every provider will use a standard way to share health records, a patient's longitudinal medical history will be created over time.

This is an open federated architecture in which both public and private health providers will participate and the patients can expect diagnostic reports, discharge summaries, prescriptions etc. to soon be available on their phone.

"Doctors may also seek to see patients' medical history on their visits in which case they will need to consent and can control which records and for how long they want to provide access," the agency elaborated.

It added that the target is to get all required software applications developed, tested and deployed.

Actor Rhea Chakraborty and her brother Showik arrive at DRDO guest house for questioning by CBI in Mumbai on Friday | PTI

CBI grills Rhea for first time in Sushant case

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

THE Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) on Friday questioned actor Rhea Chakraborty for the first time since it took over the investigation into the case relating to the death of actor Sushant Singh Rajput.

According to sources, Rhea and her brother Showik Chakraborty were questioned by officials at the DRDO guest house at Santa Cruz in Mumbai. Showik has been questioned by the agency earlier, too. Her questioning is likely to continue for the next few days. The actor is also being examined by two other central agencies — the Enforcement Directorate and the Narcotics Control Bureau.

While the ED is probing charges of financial fraud, the NCB had registered a case against her after chats allegedly revealed that she was involved in alleged drug deals. According to sources, the agency confronted Rhea with a list of 10 questions. Some of the questions pertained to her whereabouts at the time of the actor's death and also her relationship with Rajput.

The late actor's flatmate Siddharth Pithani and manager Samuel Miranda were also questioned by the CBI on Friday. The duo has been questioned by the agency earlier so has Rajput's staff member Neeraj. The CBI took over the probe into the case after the Supreme Court last week upheld the transfer of the FIR lodged by Rajput's father, K K Singh, in Patna against Rhea and others for allegedly abetting his son's suicide and misappropriating his money to the central agency.

There is a definite BJP angle to it. CBI will investigate producer of PM Modi's biopic in drug dealing... Why was Sandeep Singh chosen to helm the project?
Sachin Sawant, Congress leader

Meanwhile, the Congress in Maharashtra demanded that the "BJP angle" in the Rajput suicide case should be probed. The BJP rubbished the allegations. Congress spokesperson Sachin Sawant claimed that the CBI was going to question Sandeep Singh, who was producer of the biopic 'PM Narendra Modi', with regard to the drugs aspect of the case.

PCI asks media not to carry out a 'parallel trial'

NEW DELHI: Taking strong note of the coverage of actor Sushant Singh Rajput's death case by some media outlets, the Press Council of India (PCI) on Friday said the media should adhere to the norms of journalistic conduct in covering cases under investigation and is advised not to carry out its own "parallel trial".

"The media should not narrate the story in a manner so as to induce the general public to believe in the complicity of the person indicted. Publishing information based on gossip about the line of investigation by the official agencies on the crime committed is not desirable. It is not advisable to vigorously report crime related issues on a day to day basis and comment on the evidence without ascertaining the factual matrix. Such reporting brings undue pressure in the course of fair investigation and trial," the PCI said in a statement.

It also advised the media to refrain from giving "excessive publicity" to the "victim, witnesses, suspects and accused".

The norm prohibits publishing stories about suicide prominently and advises the media not to unduly repeat such stories, it added. ENS

NEET, JEE review petition: Oppn cites logistical concerns

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

AFTER filing a review petition over NEET and JEE, the seven states hoped that the postponement of Common Law Admission Test (CLAT) and the Supreme Court's UGC order providing a window to states for deciding the dates of college exams will make the SC re-consider its order in public interest.

Counsel for Abhishek Manu Singhvi said the matter is expected to be taken up only on September 1, the day NEET begins.

"The short order that dismissed an earlier review petition has given no reason. CLAT exams with lesser students have been postponed from September 7 to 28. We hope that this convergence of views by important states of India will lead to a public interest result," he said.

"The logistics themselves show what a mockery you are making of Covid safeguards. The number of students is around 25 lakh. What kind of social distancing are you talking about? In Bihar, out of 38 districts, all the centres of NEET are concentrated in two districts and for JEE, in seven," he said.

Accusing the government of kneejerk reaction after drawing itself in a corner, Singhvi said, "These exams were scheduled in April. You kept postponing, you slept and did not create alternatives, now you're stuck. Such large movements are a recipe for disaster when health, life and security are concerned. We've tried to give a responsible roadmap. Even if you postpone exams to October-November, get results in 6-8 weeks, you can start in January and complete the academic year."

Trinamool MP Derek O Brien attacked the government on account of poor planning. "What else can you expect from a government that announced a 21-day lockdown on a four-hour notice?" he asked.

Jharkhand CM Hemant Soren said it is not just about the children but many will be accompanied by their parents and keeping in mind that the transport system is not completely functional, it will be a big challenge.

Talk to genuine pupils, not fabricated ones: Didi to PM

PRANAB MONDAL @Kolkata

SHARPENING her attack on the Centre over issue of NEET and JEE exams, West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Friday asked PM Narendra Modi to use his Maan Ki Baat platform and interact with "genuine students, not fabricated ones", to gauge their pulse.

"The Centre is trying to impose its unilateral decision on the states. There is a programme titled Mann Ki Baat. Why don't you (PM) interact with the students regarding your decisions to conduct exams in September? You interact with genuine students, not fabricated ones. You will come to know what students want," said Mamata while addressing a virtual rally from her Kalighat residence on the foundation day of her party's students' wing.

The TMC chief asked the youth wing to launch a movement against the Centre's decision. "I urge the young supporters of the Trinamool Congress Chhatra Praishad to hit the roads and form a large-scale movement against the central government's decision," she said.

Referring to the UGC's recent directive asking universities to conduct final semester examinations in September, Mamata said the commission was not concerned about students' safety.

Monsoon session: Coronavirus testing must for lawmakers, media persons

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

WITH the monsoon session of Parliament beginning in mid-September, Lok Sabha Speaker Om Birla on Friday said the MPs will be requested to undergo Covid-19 tests for which elaborate arrangements are being made in the premises.

Birla said an exhaustive guideline is being readied for the officials and the staff of the Lok Sabha and the Rajya Sabha secretariats. "There will be facilities for the health tests of the officials and staff. Also, the officials of the ministries and staff of the MPs who come to Parliament will also get the Covid-19 testing facility," he added.

The test will be mandatory for the media persons, too. Not more than 100 press persons will be allowed to cover the proceedings of the two Houses. Birla held a review meeting with senior functionaries of AIIMS, ICMR and DRDO, among other agencies, to examine various aspects of the Covid-19 protocol needed to be followed during the session.

"In a bid to ensure that the Covid-19 infection doesn't spread during the monsoon session of Parliament, necessary arrangements in consultations with experts are being made. Special focus will be on health front. If the need arises, the number of staff may also be decreased to ensure the protocol is followed," the Speaker said.

During the proceedings in the two Houses, the MPs will be allowed to speak while sitting. To ensure social distancing, the MPs will also be seated in the visitors' gallery.

SC refuses to ban telecast of Sudarshan TV's show

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@New Delhi

A private TV channel's controversial show, which claimed a 'big expose on conspiracy to infiltrate Muslims in government service', on Friday came under judicial scrutiny before the Supreme Court and the Delhi High Court.

While the top court refused to impose pre-broadcast ban on Sudarshan TV from airing 'Bindas Bol' programme, the HC, in an interim order, stayed the telecast of the same show — 'UPSC Jihad' — which was scheduled at 8 pm on Friday.

A Supreme Court bench comprising Justices D Y Chandrachud and K M Joseph said it has to be circumspect in imposing a prior restraint on publication or the airing of views.

"At this stage, we have desisted from imposing a pre-broadcast interlocutory injunction on the basis of an unverified transcript of a forty-nine second clip. The court has to be circumspect in imposing a prior restraint on publication or the airing of views... We note that under statutory provisions, competent authorities are vested with powers to ensure compliance with law, including provisions of the criminal law intended to ensure social harmony and the peaceful coexistence of all communities," the bench said while hearing the petition filed by senior advocate Firoz Iqbal Khan.

Some former and present students of Jamia Millia Islamia had approached the high court stating that the show is sought to defame, attack and incite hatred against the varsity, its alumni and the Muslim community at large.

A single-judge bench of the HC Justice Navin Chawla issued a restraint order against the broadcast and also issued notice to the Centre, UPSC, Sudarshan TV and Suresh Chavhanke.

The editor had uploaded a trailer for the show on his Twitter handle on August 25, alleging a conspiracy in the "overwhelming" number of Muslim students clearing the UPSC examinations.

J&K: 4 militants killed, 1 'surrenders'

An Al-Badar Mujahideen commander, two accomplices who killed a panch, among the slain

FAYAZ WANI @ Sringar

FOUR Al-Badar Mujahideen militants, including a top commander, were killed and another captured alive after an encounter in south Kashmir's Shopian district on Friday.

According to the police, the militants were involved in abduction and killing of a panch, whose body was recovered from an orchard in Shopian, as well as abduction of an Army man who is still missing.

IG, Kashmir, Vijay Kumar said a joint contingent of police, CRPF and Army launched combing and search operation at an orchard in Kiloora area in the afternoon after receiving inputs about a group of militants hiding there. He said while security men were conducting searches, they came under heavy fire from militants hiding in the area. "The fire was returned by troops and four militants were killed."

The militant captured alive was identified as Shoiab Ahmad Bhat of Awantipora, Pulwama. The Army, however, claimed that Bhat had surrendered before the security forces.

Albadar Mujahideen commander Shakoor Parray, who was a police deserter, was among those gunned down by the security personnel. Shakoor, according to the IG, was a Special Police Officer and promoted as constable. He had deserted the police rank in January 2016 and joined militant ranks.

On January 16, 2016, Shakoor, who was then posted as a security guard to a police officer in South Kashmir, had deserted the police force and decamped with four AK-47 rifles.

After joining militancy, the IG said, Shakoor had revived Al-Badar and was a top commander of the outfit. "He had recruited 10 cadres and five of them have been killed while the hunt is for the remaining militants."

The other three slain militants were identified as Suhail Bhat, Zubair Nengroo and Shakirul-Jabbar. Shakir and Suhail had abducted and killed Nisar Ahmad Bhat, the panch whose body was recovered from an orchard.

Nisar had gone missing on August 19 in Shopian and later militants had released an audio clip claiming they had abducted, killed him and buried his body at an undisclosed place.

No Muharram processions as restrictions, tight vigil in place

Surprise inspection

J&K Lieutenant Governor Manoj Sinha made a surprise visit to the Civil Secretariat and inspected various administrative sections. The L-G asked officers and staff to be professional and maintain punctuality

SRINAGAR: Authorities on Friday imposed restrictions in parts of Kashmir to prevent people from taking out Muharram processions to mark the eighth day of the 10-day mourning period.

Restrictions on the movement and assembly of people under Section 144 of the CrPC have been imposed in Budgam and Baramulla districts and parts of Srinagar district, officials said.

In Srinagar, the curbs were been imposed in Shaheedgunj, M A Road, Ram Munshi Bagh, Maisuma and partially in Batamaloo area.

Shops and other business establishments in the areas, where restrictions are in place, are shut, while public transport is off the roads, they said. However, some private vehicles were seen plying.

The officials said security forces have been deployed in strength in other areas of the Kashmir Valley to prevent any untoward incident. The restrictions were imposed to maintain law and order in these areas in view of the eighth day of Muharram.

The traditional Muharram procession, to mark the eighth day of the 10-day Muharram mourning period, used to pass through these areas, but have been banned since the eruption of militancy in 1990, as authorities maintain that the religious gatherings have been used for propagating separatist politics. Agencies

Audio clip on Jitin Prasada exposes chinks in UP Cong

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

JITIN PRASADA, one of the 23 dissenters within the Congress demanding reforms in the party, is in the eye of a storm. The Lakhimpur Kheri District Congress Committee has passed a resolution seeking action against Prasada, a signatory to the August 7 letter written by the dissenters. But that's half the story.

Party's Kheri unit chief Prahalad Patel said the 'resolution' against 'mantirji' (Prasada) was passed following directives of a senior office-bearer of the state unit. "In fact, the draft of the resolution was sent by a functionary close to the party brass," he said. "Yes, the resolution was provided to us by Uttar Pradesh Congress Committee secretary in-charge for Lakhimpur Kheri (Kumud) Gangwar," said Patel.

Prasada is a former Union minister who represented the Dhaurahra Lok Sabha constituency in Lakhimpur Kheri.

In an audio clip that went viral, Patel is heard pointing towards the role of a party functionary close to the top leadership. "I have been appointed the district president and I have to follow the diktats of the seniors sitting in Lucknow. The resolution condemning 23 leaders was sent by Dheeraj Gujjar. I refused to sign as I did not agree with some of the lines in the (draft) resolution. Three lines were removed thrice. Gangwar (in-charge of Lakhimpur Kheri) was also being pressured," Patel says in the clip.

A senior UPCC leader claimed the Kheri resolution against Prasada was an expression of the feelings of party men. Another leader said the resolution might have been the outcome of a turf war between Prasada and a former Congress MP from the region.

Prasada has said the issue was over after discussions before Congress chief Sonia Gandhi at the CWC meeting on Monday.

Former state Congress Committee chief Raj Babbar too had signed the letter. But he said he was ignorant about the demands for action against Prasada.

A day before the CWC meeting, UPCC president Ajay Kumar Lallu, Congress Legislature Party leader Aradhna Mishra 'Mona', some other legislators and senior leaders too had signed a joint statement targeting those who had signed the controversial letter.

"For all of us, this is the time to unite and stand by the party's top leadership to fight the forces destroying constitutional values and democracy," said the leaders in a joint statement.

Serial banned over love jihad plaint in Assam

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Guwahati

AN Assamese TV serial, which was allegedly promoting "love jihad" on a regional channel, was banned for two months by the local administration.

'Begum Jaan' was banned based on the recommendations of a 10-member district level monitoring committee, Guwahati Police Commissioner Munna Prasad Gupta said.

"A prohibitory order under the Cable Television Network (Regulations) Act was passed to suspend the telecast of the serial for two months. We received several complaints. The order of ban was issued based on the committee's recommendations," Gupta told this newspaper. "There are apprehensions that there may be a breach of peace and tranquility. As such, the committee recommended the ban."

The action was taken in the wake of protests lodged by some right wing groups, including the Hindu Jagran Manch, and social media users. Alleging that the serial promoted love jihad and belittled Hindu and Assamese cultures, they had demanded its complete ban. An organisation, called the Hindu Janajagruti Samiti, had launched an online campaign calling for a ban on its broadcast.

BJP veterans eye top 2 seats in MP Assembly

BHOPAL: BJP heavyweights and veterans are now eyeing the twin posts of Speaker and Deputy Speaker of the Madhya Pradesh Assembly, after being ignored in the expansion of the Shivraj Singh Chouhan Cabinet in July.

The election to the twin posts will be held next month during the three day session starting September 21.

Ex-minister and four-time legislator Rajendra Shukla, three-time MLA Girish Gautam, ex-minister and three-time MLA Nagendra Singh, five-time MLA and former MP Nagendra Singh Nagod, and three-time MLAs Kedar Nath Shukla and Ramlalu Vaishya are among the front runners from Vindhya region.

The other names doing the round include ex-minister Ajay Vishnoi, former Vidhan Sabha Speaker Sitasaran Sharma, and three-time MLAs Yashpal Singh Sisodiya and Pradeep Lariya.

According to BJP insiders, though both Speaker and Deputy Speaker were earlier elected unanimously, but the tradition was broken in 2019 when then opposition BJP had pressed for elections for both posts, which resulted in the then ruling Congress nominees cornering both the posts.

If the same pattern is repeated during the Vidhan Sabha session next month, then the BJP with 107 MLAs of its own and six allied MLAs will see its nominees being elected to the twin posts in the present 203-member Assembly. ENS

Punjab passes resolution against farm ordinances

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

THE Punjab Assembly on Friday unanimously passed a resolution tabled by Chief Minister Amarinder Singh against the Centre's farm ordinances and the proposed electricity bill in the absence of opposition SAD, a BJP ally.

However, both saffron party MLAs were present.

The resolution said the ordinances were against the rights of the farmers and the federal structure. It the farmers' produce trade and commerce ordinance, farmers' agreement on price assurance and farm services ordinance, essential commodities (amendment) ordinance and the electricity amendment Bill 2020.

The resolution termed these ordinances as anti-farmer and against the MSP regime.

Amarinder said the House was seriously concerned about the apprehensions caused by the three ordinances to the people of Punjab, particularly the marginal farmers and landless workers. These ordinances were not only against the time-tested agriculture marketing system, but were also against the Constitution.

Punjab CM Amarinder Singh speaks at the Assembly session in Chandigarh | PTI

He referred to List II of the Constitution that places agriculture to the subject of the states. "Therefore, these ordinances are a direct encroachment on the functions of the states and against the spirit of cooperative federalism. They will promote distress sale."

"This House urges upon the Union government to withdraw these ordinances and the proposed Electricity (Amendment) Bill forthwith; and instead, promulgate a fresh ordinance making the procurement of foodgrains and other agricultural produce at the MSP, a statutory right of farmers and continuation of government procurement through FCI," said the resolution.

Amarinder said that these ordinances, if implemented, would force the state into chaos similar to the 1980s. "Punjab being a border state can ill-afford such a situation as Pakistan is waiting to derive advantage from it."

The Assembly was convened amid the pandemic to fulfill the constitutional obligation of meeting within six months of the last session.

Bihar to issue caste tags to kids in orphanages

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ Patna

BIHAR has taken the caste tag to its Child Care Institutes (CCIs). The inmates of such institutes who are yet to be adopted will be put under the general category and their residential certificates would be the CCIs which they belong to.

Those who have been adopted from the CCIs (orphanages) would be issued the caste of their foster parents and their residential certificates will mention the address of their foster parents.

Four upper castes fall under the general category (Brahmin, Bhumihar, Kayastha, Rajputs) and the rest have categories such as SC, ST and OBC and Mahadalits.

In a first such move, the government has directed all districts to follow the guidelines for issuing the caste, residential and income certificates to such kids, said director, Social Welfare Department, Raj Kumar. There are 79 CCIs in Bihar with overn 1,500 inmates.

The general administration department on August 25 issued a directive to ensure compliance of the order "in the larger interest of present and past CCI inmates". The government said the lack of basic paperwork has deprived such children of benefits in education, employment and many other schemes. The yet-to-adopted children, too, will benefit from the decision.

The social welfare department is already training officials and staff of other states through Child Protection Management Information System and the CLTS software developed on the adoption system.

No bail for Sudha Bharadwaj, says HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mumbai

THE Bombay High Court on Friday rejected the bail application of lawyer-activist Sudha Bharadwaj in the Bhima Koregaon case.

The case pertains to the Elgar Parishad conclave on December 31, 2017 in which speeches made by some activists allegedly led to violence near the Koregaon-Bhima war memorial on outskirts of Pune the next day.

Bharadwaj had challenged a special court's order that denied her bail on health grounds. The 58-year-old activist had sought bail on medical grounds, saying she is a comorbid patient and that makes her extremely vulnerable to COVID-19.

In its affidavit opposing the plea, the National Investigation Agency accused Bharadwaj of taking "undue benefit" of the situation caused by the COVID-19 pandemic.

The NIA also told the court that if at any time, Bharadwaj's condition needed further treatment or if she was required to be admitted to a hospital, even a private one, the state would provide it.

While rejecting the application, the bench of Justices RD DHanuka and GV Bisht asserted that the State would cover her medical expenses while she was lodged in prison.

Bharadwaj was arrested in 2018 for her alleged involvement in the Bhima Koregaon case. She was lodged at the Yerwada Jail in Pune and now is incarcerated at the Byculla, jail, Mumbai. She faces several charges under the UAPA.

Japanese PM Shinzo Abe quits over health reasons

TOKYO

Japan's longest-serving prime minister, Shinzo Abe, said on Friday he is stepping down because a chronic health problem has resurfaced. He told reporters that it was "gut wrenching" to leave many of his goals unfinished.

Abe has had ulcerative colitis since he was a teenager and has said the condition was controlled with treatment. Concerns about his health began this summer and grew this month when he visited a Tokyo hospital two weeks in a row for unspecified health checkups. He is now on a new treatment that requires IV injections, he said.

Abe became Japan's youngest prime minister in 2006, at age 52, but his overly nationalistic first stint abruptly ended a year later because of his health.

Ulcerative colitis causes inflammation and sometimes polyps in the bowels.

"It is gut wrenching to have to leave my job before accomplishing my goals," Abe said Friday, mentioning his failure to resolve the issue of a Japanese abducted years ago by North Korea, a territorial dispute with Russia and a revision of Japan's war-renouncing constitution.

He said his health problem was under control until earlier this year but was found to have worsened in June when he had an annual checkup.

After his recent hospital visits were reported, top officials from Abe's Cabinet and the ruling party said he was overworked and badly needed rest.

Analysts say no major change of policy is expected whoever succeeds Abe, though Japan may return to an era of short-lived leadership. AP

Virus goes for a toss; no masks or tests for Don's convention

US Prez attacked the Democratic nominee by calling him a threat to the 'American Dream'

WASHINGTON

US PRESIDENT Donald Trump blasted Joe Biden as a hapless career politician who will endanger Americans' safety as he accepted his party's renomination on Thursday on the South Lawn of the White House. While the coronavirus kills 1,000 Americans each day, Trump defied his own administration's pandemic guidelines to speak for more than an hour to a tightly packed, largely maskless crowd.

Facing a moment fraught with racial turmoil, economic collapse and a national health emergency, Trump delivered a triumphant, optimistic vision of America's future. But he said that brighter horizon could only be secured if he defeated his Democratic foe, who currently has an advantage in most national and battleground state polls.

"We have spent the last four years reversing the damage Joe Biden inflicted over the last 47 years," Trump said, referring to the former senator and vice president's career in Washington.

When Trump finished, a massive fireworks display went off by the Washington Monument, complete with explosions that spelled out "Trump 2020."

His acceptance speech kicked off the final stretch of the campaign. Trump's pace of travel will pick up to a near daily pace while Biden, who has largely weathered the pandemic from this Delaware home, announced he will soon resume campaign travel.

All week long, Republicans at the nonconvention convention tried to create the illusion that the pandemic is largely a thing of the past. The rows of chairs on the South Lawn were inches apart. Protective masks were not required, and Covid-19 tests were not administered to everyone.

As his speech brought the scaled-back Republican National Convention to a close, Trump's incendiary rhetoric risked inflaming a divided nation reeling from a series of calamities, including the pandemic, a major hurricane and nights of protest after Jacob Blake, a Black man, was shot by a white Wisconsin police officer. Prosecutors charged a white, 17-year-old police admirer with the fatal shooting of two protesters and wounding of a third. AP

Biden, Harris slam Trump over unrest & Covid

WASHINGTON

DEMOCRATIC presidential nominee Joe Biden and running mate Kamala Harris launched a two-pronged attack on Thursday against Donald Trump, saying the president is fuelling unrest over police brutality and racial injustice and has failed to protect Americans.

Trump "refuses to even acknowledge there is a racial justice problem in America," Biden said in a statement.

Harris said she would "always defend" peaceful protesters but they should not be confused "with those looting and committing acts of violence."

Harris also went after Trump for his handling of the coronavirus pandemic, saying the president showed "reckless disregard" by failing to take decisive action.

"Donald Trump has failed at the most basic and important job of a president of the United States. He failed to protect the American people," she said.

Russia expels Norwegian diplomat

MOSCOW: The Russian foreign ministry on Friday said it had expelled a senior Norwegian diplomat in retaliation after Oslo expelled a Russian diplomat following the arrest of a suspected spy. The Russian ministry said that "as a retaliatory measure" a senior diplomat at the Norwegian embassy was declared persona non-grata and must leave within three days. Russia accused Norway of taking a "destructive course" that would "inevitably negatively affect bilateral relations. Norwegian foreign ministry spokeswoman Guri Solberg called the diplomat's expulsion "totally without foundation" in a statement sent to AFP. Norway named the diplomat as Jan Flaete. It came after Norway announced the expulsion of a Russian diplomat on August 19, days after arresting a Norwegian man suspected of spying. AFP

NITTY-GRITTY OF WORLD BANK'S RANKING

- The rankings are based on a country's performance on 10 indicators such as starting a business, dealing with construction permits, getting electricity, registering property, getting credit, protecting minority investors, paying taxes, etc.
- In 2014, India was ranked 142nd. It jumped to the 63rd position among 190 countries in May 2019.

Eyebrows raised over India's ease of doing biz rank

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

WITH the World Bank all set to review its flagship 'Doing Business' report of last five years, India's monumental gain in the business climate index during the period is being questioned. This year, World Bank won't be publishing its Doing Business report as it conducts its assessment.

India has improved its ranking by 79 positions in five years (2014-19). In the recent World Bank's ease of doing business 2020 report, the country jumped to 63rd position, among 190 nations. India also figured among the top 10 performers on the list for the third time in a row.

"India's ranking witnessed improvement even as the Central Government took drastic steps such demonetization and ghastly implementation of Goods of Service Tax. These two steps alone uprooted lakhs of small businesses," said a senior economist at a brokerage firm requesting anonymity.

Consultancy firm McKinsey in a report released on Wednesday said that even as India rose from 130th overall in 2016 to 63rd in 2020 in the business index, Indian companies still face obstacles ranging from delayed payments for public procurement to tedious and slow processes for obtaining permits.

"Construction permits, for example, take 106 days, almost double the time in peer emerging markets. These and other issues could be resolved if the government adopted global best practices in relevant areas," the report said.

Taking to Twitter, former union minister and Congress leader Jairam Ramesh slammed the Modi government for chasing "bogus rankings" over the years while MSMEs continued to languish.

The government, however, is confident that there won't be much change in India's position as numerous reforms taken during the last six years has made India a favourite destination for doing business. Niti Aayog CEO Amitabh Kant said that India's business climate has been continuously improving, not for the sake of World Bank's Index but to make India easy and simple. "All of us in the government will continue to work tirelessly to ensure efficient and effective norms... and make India one of the easiest countries to invest and create wealth,'' Kant was quoted as saying.

Dinesh Kumar front runner for next SBI chief

The board further said that Challa Sreenivasulu Setty will be in the reserve list for vacancy

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE Banks Board Bureau (BBB), the official headhunter for state-owned banks and financial institutions, has recommended the name of Dinesh Kumar Khara as next chairman of the largest public sector bank State Bank of India. The board further said that Challa Sreenivasulu Setty will be in the reserve list for vacancy. D K Khara and C S Setty are managing directors of SBI, along with two others — Arijit Basu and the newly-appointed Ashwani Bhatia.

"Keeping in view their performance in the interface and their overall experience, the Bureau recommends as follows: Dinesh Kumar Khara for the vacancy of Chairman in State Bank of India. Challa Sreenivasulu Setty as the candidate on the Reserve List for the said vacancy," the BBB said in a statement on Friday.

The decision came after the Banks Board Bureau members had interfaced with four managing directors of SBI on Friday. If accepted, he will succeed Rajnish Kumar, whose tenure is slated to end on October 7. Kumar was appointed in 2017 for a period of three years.

As per convention, the SBI chairman is appointed from a pool of serving managing directors at the bank. According to the official website of SBI General Insurance, 56-year-old Khara is the managing director of the Global Banking and Subsidiaries (GB&S) wing of SBI and supervises the businesses of non-banking subsidiaries of the bank. A Masters in Business Administration from FMS, New Delhi, he joined SBI as a probationary officer in 1984 where he served in various capacity and played a major role in merging SBI with its five associate banks and the Bhartiya Mahila Bank.

Founded in 2016, Banks Board Bureau is headed by former Department of Personnel & Training Secretary Bhanu Pratap Sharma, with Secretary of Department of Financial Services, Secretary of Department of Public Enterprises and the Reserve Bank Deputy Governor.

High fuel rates, low demand set to dwindle truck operators' FY21 profit

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

Recovery likely in the third quarter, says Crisil

With the gradual unlocking of industrial and economic activities, fleet utilisation should improve to 80-90 per cent of the pre-pandemic levels during the second quarter, said Crisil Director Nitin Kansal, adding recovery is possible in the third quarter if things keep improving

THE steady unlocking of the economy and a subsequent spike in demand may mitigate the destructive impact of the lockdowns on fleet operators this fiscal year (FY21), with revenues expected to decline by a lower-than-expected 15 per cent, according to a report from CRISIL. However, with overall demand expected to remain lower than pre-Covid levels, lower capacity utilisation and substantially higher fuel prices are likely to take a large chunk out of the segment's profits.

Lockdowns declared beginning late-March this year had brought most transportation and economic activity to a grinding halt. Even though unimpeded movement of cargo vehicles was allowed almost immediately after the lockdown announcement, the large scale shutdown of factories and the consequent plunge in industrial demand grounded most of India's medium to heavy-duty truck fleet.

While two-thirds of India's truck fleet was left idle during April, the unlocking exercises in beginning late May loosened the stranglehold on economic activity and resulted in an upsurge in demand. This spike is likely to help limit the impact of the earlier disruption.

According to Crisil, overall freight demand nearly halved in the first quarter (April-June period). But, "a likely surge in freight demand as economic activities return to normal will contain the fall in fleet operator revenue to around 15 per cent this financial year. On the other hand, lower fleet utilisation and limited ability to pass on higher fuel cost will moderate operating profitability by 240-260 bps," it said.

Crisil Ratings Director Nitin Kansal said, "With the gradual unlocking of industrial and economic activities, fleet utilisation should improve to 80-90 per cent of the pre-pandemic levels during the second quarter."

Crisil also pointed out that recovery to business-as-usual status is possible in the third quarter if things keep improving. But, improving fleet utilisation alone is not expected to restore the sector's profitability.

Fuel alone costs more than 50 per cent of the operating costs and fuel prices are currently at all-time highs due to massive duty hikes by the government.

CIL's shipments to power sector falls 20%

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

REFLECTING the sharp hit that India's power sector took during the peak of the national lockdown in April and the slow recovery of demand in the following months, data from the country's largest coal producer shows that its despatches to the power sector dived nearly 20 per cent during the April-July period of this year.

Coal India accounts for over 80 per cent of domestic coal output and power plants consume a substantial portion of this. During the period under review, coal despatches fell to 126.30 million tonnes (MT) compared to 156.86 MT of fuel in April-July last year, according to data from the coal ministry.

Coal offtake reduced in June 2020 year-on-year but improved month-on-month with the gradual relaxation in lockdown norms

India Ratings

In July 2020, coal despatch from CIL fell 12.4 per cent to 32.76 MT, from 37.41 MT supply in the corresponding month of the previous fiscal year. In fact, India's power output clawed itself back into year-on-year growth territory only in the first fortnight of this month since the lockdown was announced in March. The amount of energy met by India's power suppliers rose to 54,990 million units (MU) — around 1.6 per cent higher than the 54,092 MU generated during the same period of the previous year.

This, after a 14.3 per cent fall in May, a 9.9 per cent decline in June and a 1.8 per cent decline in July.

However, while demand is rising, this trend is likely to remain muted as the economy settles into a slower band of GDP growth for the next few quarters.

According to ratings agency India Ratings, demand for domestic coal is "likely to be subdued in the second quarter of the current financial year due to lower demand from end-user industries... along with high inventory at power stations".

It had also noted that domestic coal production has remained subdued for the third consecutive month in June 2020. But offtake, which also fell on year-on-year terms, improved month-on-month due to the gradual relaxation in lockdown norms.

RBL Bank MD trims stake, sells 19L shares worth ₹38.5 cr

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

RBL Bank said its managing director Vishwavir Ahuja has reduced his stake in the private lender to service personal debt and cater to family commitments. In a stock exchange filing, the bank said Ahuja sold 18,92,900 shares of the company for ₹38.52 crore over Thursday and Friday. At the end of June, Ahuja held 1.95 per cent stake or 99,02,990 shares of the bank.

"The sale has been driven primarily with the need to extinguish personal debt obligations and related servicing burden, undertaken over the last few years mainly to exercise and purchase vested ESOPs (and pay associated tax), as well as to take care of some pressing family commitments," the bank said. It added that the sale represented around 18 per cent of his and his family's total holdings and Ahuja continues to retain 80,10,000 shares or around 1.6 per cent stake in RBL Bank post the sale of these shares.

The chief of the private sector lender said RBL Bank has strong growth prospects over the next several years, especially in areas which it has chosen to scale up. "We continue to walk down the transformation journey that started 10 years ago, and believe that the current economic disruptions will only further accelerate the opportunities that present themselves to a technologically led bank such as ours, which I continue to lead with full commitment...," he added.

Salesforce cuts 1,000 jobs despite a strong quarter

BISMAH MALIK @ Bengaluru

GLOBAL enterprise software firm, Salesforce has announced layoffs which will impact 1,000 roles globally even as the company posted the strongest quarterly results of $5 billion on Tuesday. The California-based company said that it will retrench 1.9 per cent of the 54,000 workforce globally.

Although the software firm has a majority of its workforce based in the US, its employees in the Asia Pacific region including India will also be impacted as a result of the move, said a company spokesperson.

"We are reallocating resources to position the company for continued growth. This includes continuing to hire and redirecting some employees to fuel our strategic areas, and eliminating some positions that no longer map to our business priorities. For affected employees, we are helping them find the next step in their careers, whether within our company or a new opportunity," Salesforce India's spokesperson told TNIE in an emailed response. Earlier in March this year, Salesforce appointed former SBI chairperson Arundhati Bhattacharya as the chief executive of its India division. The company had also announced to hire 3,000 in India, one of the fastest growing markets for its various cloud infrastructure services.

Broken promise

Salesforce CEO, Marc Benioff said in a tweet in March, 2020 that the software giant will not conduct any significant layoffs and will continue to pay its hourly workers even as offices remain closed.

With the onset of the Covid-19 pandemic and the subsequent work-from-home culture gaining ground, the demand for digital transformation has spiked, shooting up revenues of cloud service providers. Salesforce, on the back of its flagship customer relationship management (CRM) model being used by subscribers, reported an annual revenue of $19 billion.

Auto firms may see pick up in August sales, but long road ahead for recovery

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE auto industry may start its recovery journey in a linear manner. Analysts say wholesales are expected to grow for two-wheelers, passenger vehicles and tractors in August 2020 owing to good demand, low inventory, a low base, and normalizing production over the months.

Analysts at Motilal Oswal estimate volumes to grow at 3.6 per cent/16 per cent for 2W/PV on account of sustained demand and inventory refilling. Tractor volumes are expected to grow at a stellar pace of 45 per cent year-on-year (YoY) on a low base and continued retail momentum. However, volumes would decline 49 per cent YoY for commercial vehicles (ex-Tata) due to low demand.

The report of gradual rise in sales come at a time when few executives beleive that real recovery is still out of sight and it is only the 'pent up demand' that is pushing sales.

"The majority of entry-level PV customers and urban 2W customers are purchasing vehicles for safety purposes, who otherwise may have avoided the purchase. Overall consumer sentiment has improved, but urban customers remain cautious given the uncertain environment," the Motilal Oswal report said.

The brokerage firm also noted that Maruti Suzuki India is in a comparatively better position than peers due to its entry-level portfolio. "Volumes are expected to grow by ~19 per cent for Maruti Suzuki (on a low base) and ~1.9 per cent for Mahindra & Mahindra's UV (incl. pick-ups)," it added.

ICICI Bank sells 2% stake in subsidiary

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

PRIVATE sector lender ICICI Bank on Friday said that it has sold 2 per cent of its stake in its brokerage arm I-Sec (or ICICI Securities) through an open market transaction which has gained it ₹310 crore.

ICICI Bank, the promoter of I-Sec, has now divested 64,42,000 equity shares of the face value of ₹5 each of the company on the stock exchange, the lender said in its regulatory filing.

Earlier on Wednesday, the board of directors of ICICI Bank had approved the sale of shares in the subsidiary to comply with the minimum public float requirement. "Following this divestment, the bank's shareholding in the company stands at 77.22 per cent," it said in its statement.

According to current norms, once a company is listed, its promoters are required to bring down their shareholding to 75 per cent within a stipulated period to meet the minimum public float requirement of 25 per cent. ICICI Securities had been listed on the stock markets in April 2018.

Spinning industry seeks end to anti-dumping duty on VSF

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Chennai

THE domestic textile spinning mills industry on Friday urged the Centre to do away with the anti-dumping duty on Viscose Staple fibre (VSF), which was imposed a decade ago.

The mills in the region have alleged that VSF is produced by a single manufacturer in the country and is sold at prices much higher than global rates, hurting mostly the small businesses. Besides, production of the raw material in the country is not enough to meet the needs.

"The removal of the duty will help a big section of the MSMEs in their growth and will create a level playing for the entire textile value chain," said Southern India Mills Association Chairman Ashwin Chandran. VSF is a major input in the manufacture of fabrics made of poly-viscose and 100 per cent viscose yarn.

Seeking removal of the duty, he said, man-made fibre (MMF) products account for 20 per cent of the total Textile and Clothing (T&C) exports, whereas, in China and other exporting countries it is 80 per cent.

According to the association, India is not able to make any progress in MMF T&C exports despite being the world's second largest producer of MMF due to price disadvantage. Removing the duty will make the entire Indian VSF textile value chain globally competitive and boost exports, Chandran said.

Mess & mayhem in CSK camp

After multiple players return Covid-19 positive, team in huddle to assess situation

VENKATA KRISHNA B @Chennai

FOR a concept that moved heaven and earth to ensure that the IPL takes place, developments in the Chennai Super Kings' (CSK) camp might come as a big blow.

Though CSK and the BCCI were yet to make an official statement, which led to speculations around the number of positive Covid-19 tests, it is learnt they have to wait till Saturday. That's when results of the fourth test will arrive. Only after that can they make it public, as per health directives in the UAE. Apart from those who tested positive, their contacts have also been placed under quarantine, meaning they will have to spend at least another 10 days in hotel rooms before resuming training. This will alter the schedule of IPL, which is yet to be announced.

In case of the players who tested positive for Covid-19, as per BCCI's standard operating procedures, they have to undergo cardiac screening before resuming training.

Though CSK have been under quarantine after landing in Dubai, questions will be asked of their decision to host a camp in Chennai from August 15 to 20. It is learnt that after CSK assembled net bowlers and started operations, a couple of them – a net bowler and an individual from the social media team – had tested positive for Covid-19. They were left behind in Chennai.

This prompted the franchise testing all their contacts. In addition, those present in Tamil Nadu Cricket Association underwent Covid tests before the camp began on August 15. In fact, the CSK management had cautioned against a camp in Chennai, because of the situation in the city. While teams had placed their players under quarantine, CSK had no such plan in place. That's because all of their players arrived with negative Covid-19 test results.

According to a video put out by the franchise on Wednesday, CSK CEO Kasi Viswanathan said he had reservations about holding the camp. But it eventually went ahead. The BCCI is likely to question the franchise about the protocols and remind them about the need to follow the SOP. That's because mistakes can put the IPL in jeopardy.

Inside the CSK camp, franchise officials and players were in good spirits. Though such developments can make way for negative thoughts, sources revealed that MS Dhoni spoke to the players and the staff and told them not to panic.

Results of the fourth test will be known on Saturday. It will determine if CSK will be allowed.

WHYS & HOWS

Multiple members of the Chennai contingent tested positive for the coronavirus in Dubai on Friday. Here's a detailed explainer about what happened and what's in store...

WASN'T A BIO-BUBBLE MEANT TO BE SECURE?

Yes, but considering the squad, including the non-playing ones, 'entered' the bubble only last week, they could have been exposed to the virus in the appropriate time frame before that. They could have been exposed any time from departing to Chennai for the short camp till they set foot in Dubai on 21st of the month. This is exactly why all teams will be tested intensively.

DO WE KNOW THEIR IDENTITIES?

Nope, that is confidential information and CSK may or may not choose to reveal the names. Even if the franchise is yet to make an official statement, at least 10 members of the touring party are positive.

WHAT HAPPENS TO POSITIVE CASES?

They will have been placed in isolation for a two-week period beginning Friday. They will be brought back into the bubble after two negative Covid-19 tests.

WEREN'T THEY MEANT TO TRAIN FROM FRIDAY?

Yes. But because of the positive tests, the team will undergo another round of quarantine before beginning training from September 1. The entirety of the team have now undergone a further test on Friday.

WILL THIS HAMPER THE START OF THE TOURNAMENT?

The scheduled start date is September 19. Even if the IPL GC haven't released the fixtures, there is indication that CSK has been pencilled into play the opener. If a few playing members of the CSK squad test positive, they will all be forced to isolate for two weeks. What happens then is not yet clear at the moment.

Abu Dhabi ready & rolling as MI, KKR start practice

FIROZ MIRZA @ Chennai

EVEN as members of the Chennai Super Kings (CSK) contingent tested positive in Dubai pushing back their inaugural training session at least till the month end, Kolkata Knight Riders (KKR) and Mumbai Indians (MI) hit the nets for the first time on Friday in Abu Dhabi. Matthew Boucher, CEO of Abu Dhabi Cricket, confirmed to this daily that all test results of both the teams returned negative paving way for them to begin training.

There were speculations that quarantine rule in Abu Dhabi had put the two teams in a spot of bother but the official said there were no surprises and everybody including the BCCI was aware of the protocols. "The border (between Abu Dhabi and Dubai) has been in place for nearly four months. Thousands of people are using the border every day to travel to Abu Dhabi from Dubai and vice versa. So the testing of the players and staff simply has to fall in line with the protocols," he informed.

The official also assured a seamless journey for the teams by ensuring a VIP lane at the border for them. "It (journey) is absolutely seamless because of the coordination between the Dubai and Abu Dhabi police. We will have a VIP lane at the border and ensure a smooth PCR testing process," Boucher said.

Speaking on stricter protocols in the Emirates of Abu Dhabi, the official added: "They (restrictions) have been in place for many months now. Any resident coming from Dubai to Abu Dhabi has to undergo the same procedure (taking a PCR test). You have to show a negative PCR report to enter the Emirates of Abu Dhabi."

KKR reached the venue on August 20 while Mumbai arrived there the next day. Speaking on the testing procedure, Boucher said: "The process was that the teams had a test in India before they departed. They had one on day one on arrival in Abu Dhabi. Then they had tests on the third and sixth day. We received negative results on day seven and applied for approval to the government and NCEMA (National Crisis & Emergency Management Authority). Today (Friday) we received the permission and training started."

Boucher also asserted that the process is simple and it will create no problem when teams travel to Abu Dhabi for the tournament. "Everything has to fall in line including the testing."

Problem of plenty a good headache: Kaif

ASHIM SUNAM @ Bengaluru

THE Delhi Capitals are bracing up for some major selection headaches while selecting their playing XI this IPL season. Imagine a scenario where they could struggle to accommodate regular opener, Ajinkya Rahane with the presence of Shikhar Dhawan and Prithvi Shaw at the top. Even the middle-order looks quite cramped with a possible line-up comprising skipper Shreyas Iyer, Shimron Hetmyer and Rishabh Pant. Will Rahane be asked to bat at six?

Shreyas (Iyer) will have lots of options to choose from Delhi have a balanced squad. It has experience with some six or seven players representing the country.

Mohammad Kaif, Delhi assistant coach

Amit Mishra might be asked to sit out if they go ahead with R Ashwin and Sandeep Lamichane as two spinners. In the pace department, Kagiso Rabada could be their first pick, but Ishant Sharma, Anrich Nortje and Keemo Paul are there too.In short, there is a lot of competition amongst the Delhi players in all departments. And Delhi are one of the teams, yet to win the IPL crown despite boosting of some of the top India team players and a good mix of experience and youth.

"Shreyas will have lots of options to choose from," said Delhi's assistant coach Mohammad Kaif. "Delhi have a balanced squad. It has experience with some six or seven players representing the country. I feel Shreyas will get a lot of support from experienced players and headache for the coaches and management too. Only eleven can play, so among those who will not be able to play, there might be some quality players as well. However, it's a good headache to have."

With conditions being quite hot in the host country, there is a possibility that players could be given some rest too. eries. Kaif ruled out the tiring factor. "It's hot and dry but once the tournament begins it won't matter because we are not travelling a lot. When you play in India, every second day after a match you pack your bags, travel to the airport, reach a new hotel. The whole tournament can be exhaustive. This might not happen in the UAE because you are staying in just one room, one hotel and grounds are not far," said Kaif.

SETBACK

Vinesh tests positive, to miss awards function

FIROZ MIRZA @Chennai

WRESTLER Vinesh Phogat, who was supposed to be conferred with the Khel Ratna during a virtual ceremony on Saturday, will not be attending after testing positive for Covid-19. All members, who would take part at various centres, were tested before a rehearsal on Thursday.

The initial list had some 74 names, while the ones attending the rehearsal was pruned to around 65 on Thursday after a few missed out due to various reasons — from illness to travel restrictions. Vinesh, the world championships bronze medallist, confirmed to this daily that she tested positive and as of now is recovering at home. Vinesh had travelled to Sonepat on Thursday where she was to attend the function. It was where she took the test. Interestingly, her coach Om Prakash Dahiya, who travelled with her to Sonepat, too tested positive. The Kharkhoda Sports School coach was supposed to be awarded the Dronacharya award in the lifetime category.

"We went together to the rehearsal and before attending it, we underwent the test and today evening (Friday) we were informed that we have tested positive," said the coach. "Keeping in mind my age I have to take care of myself. And hopefully nothing serious happens." He said they were informed about this in the evening. Interestingly, the star wrestler was training in Khardkhoda under Dahiya until now.

Another notable absentee is mountaineer Narender Singh Yadav who reportedly faked his claim for the Tenzing Norgay Award. The sports ministry has kept his award on hold as of now and there is a possibility of probing it further.

As reported by this newspaper, this will be the first national awards function to be held virtually in around 10-11 centres and will be broadcast on Doordarshan.

A DAY AHEAD OF FUNCTION, DRONA AWARDEE EXPIRES

BENGALURU: Athletics coach, Purushotham Rai, who was set to receive the Dronacharya Award in the lifetime category during a virtual award ceremony on Saturday, died of heart attack in Bengaluru on Friday. He was 79. His death was confirmed to this daily by Karnataka Athletics Association secretary A Rajavele. Rai had trained various athletes including Ashwini Nachappa, Rosa Kutty, MK Asha among others during his coaching career, which started in 1974. -ENS

Reds look to maintain rich run

Having ended the club's 30-year wait to win the English title, the Liverpool players will be determined to lay down an early marker to their title rivals. The team has been getting back to business at a training camp in Austria.

Chance for another Arsenal upset

Arsenal beat odds to get the better of Man City (semis) and Chelsea (final) en route to FA Cup success. The team has shown glimpses of what they are capable of, especially in Cup ties. With the team still learning under young coach Mikel Arteta, they are clear underdogs going into the tie, but it would be unwise to write them off.

Opening bonanza

The new English football season kicks off today with FA Cup winners Arsenal taking on Premier League champs Liverpool in the Community Shield at Wembley. Here are a few talking points...

The players are motivated. It's another opportunity to win a trophy and we will go for it.

Mikel Arteta, Arsenal manager

We've been cracking on, really working hard. New season, new start and a lot more things we want to go on and achieve.

Jordan Henderson, Liverpool captain

All eyes on Aubameyang

There are doubts over Pierre-Emerick Aubameyang's future with the Arsenal captain, whose contract expires at the end of the coming season. However, as long as he's with the club, the forward is certain to be a real threat for opposition defenders.

Everest summit success rate doubles in 30 yrs

Improved weather forecasting, supplemental oxygen and fixed climbing lines are helping

LOW DEATH RATE

GENEVA: The success rate of summiting Mount Everest, the world's tallest peak, has doubled in the last three decades, while the death rate for climbers has hovered unchanged at around 1 per cent since 1990, according to a study.

Researchers at the University of Washington and the University of California, Davis, in the US also found that the number of climbers on Mount Everest has greatly increased, crowding the narrow route through the dangerous "death zone" near the summit.

The findings, published on Wednesday in the journal PLOS ONE, analysed the success and death rates for all first-time climbers who had a permit to summit Everest during the period of 2006 to 2019.

The study shows that the summit success rates from the 1990 to 2019 have essentially doubled; two-thirds of climbers now reach the summit, verses one-third previously.

The researchers found that the overall death rate of around one per cent hasn't changed.

They also found that a contemporary 60-year-old climber has the same success rate -- about 40 per cent -- as a 40-year-old climber in the prior period, suggesting "60 is the new 40" when it comes to summiting the Everest.

A contemporary 60-year-old climber has the about the same death rate -- about 2 per cent as a 48.5-year-old in the earlier period, according to the researchers.

They also found that more women are attempting the climb in recent years (14.6 per cent) versus the previous period (9.1 per cent), with women and men having very similar odds of success or death in both periods.

The doubling of the summit success rate is likely due to a number of factors.

Weather forecasting has dramatically improved since the "Into Thin Air" storm of 1996, giving climbers more information on the best window to push for the summit, according to the researchers.

Some climbers are using elevated flow rates of supplemental oxygen -- and doing so lower on the mountain, they said.

The most popular routes have fixed lines, meaning climbers can clip into ropes tethered to the mountain for their ascent and descent, making it safer if they fall, the researchers noted.

Water covers 70% of the Earth's surface and is crucial to life as we know it, but how it got here has been a longstanding scientific debate. The puzzle was a step closer to being solved after a French team reported in Science they had identified which space rocks were responsible, and suggested our planet has been wet ever since it formed

EXFILE

How Earth became Blue Planet

PREVALENT THEORY

Water was brought to an initially dry Earth by far-reaching comets or asteroids

WHAT NEW RESEARCH SAYS

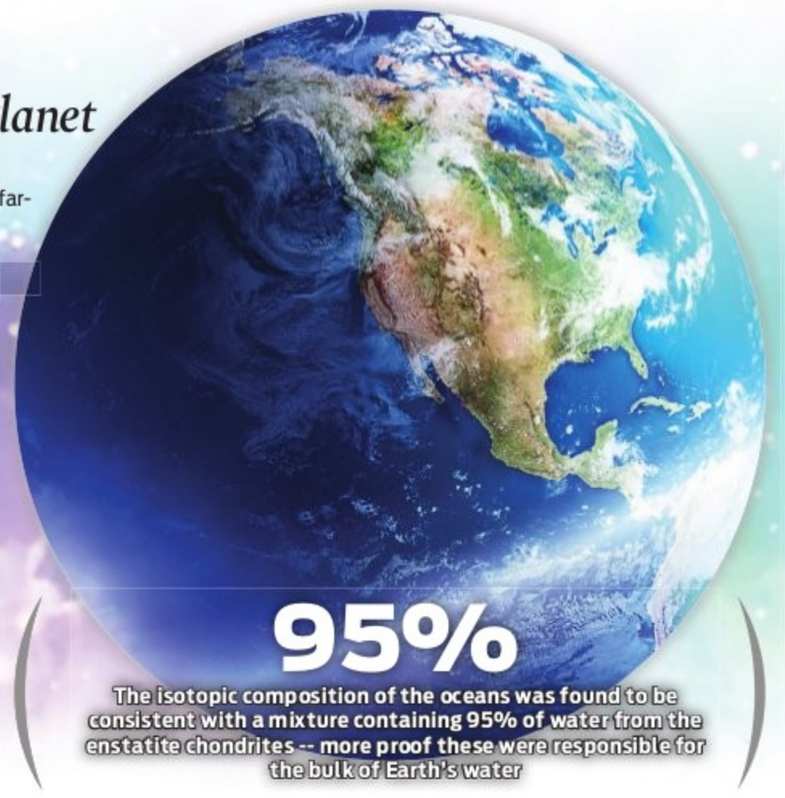
Meteorites called enstatite chondrites, containing O_2, Ti and Ca, were Earth's building blocks and were found inside our solar system. They had ingredients to create water

2 PER CENT

The rocks are now quite rare, making up only about two percent of known meteorites in collections, and it is hard to find them in pristine, uncontaminated condition

3 TIMES

Researchers found that the rocks contained enough hydrogen in them to provide Earth with at least three times the water mass of its oceans -- and possibly much more



95%

The isotopic composition of the oceans was found to be consistent with a mixture containing 95% of water from the enstatite chondrites -- more proof these were responsible for the bulk of Earth's water

0.5% OF WEIGHT IN WATER

LENGTH = 10 CM LONG

RESEARCH TECHNIQUE

WHY EARTH HAS ABUNDANT NITROGEN

The authors further found that the nitrogen isotopes from the enstatite chondrites are similar to Earth's -- and proposed these rocks could also be the source of the most abundant component of our atmosphere

"CRUCIAL" PIECE OF THE PUZZLE

The work "brings a crucial and elegant element to this puzzle" wrote Anne Peslier, a planetary scientist for NASA, in an accompanying editorial

ORIGINAL THEORIES OF WATER

According to early models for how the Solar System came to be, the large disks of gas and dust that swirled around the Sun and eventually formed the inner planets were too hot to sustain ice

This would explain the barren conditions on Mercury, Venus and Mars -- but not our blue planet, with its vast oceans, humid atmosphere and well-hydrated geology

Scientists therefore theorized that the water came along after, and the prime suspects were meteorites known as carbonaceous chondrites that are rich in hydrous minera

But the problem was that their chemical composition doesn't closely match our planet's rocks. And they formed very far away from our solar system

Brazil's plan to protect Amazon having the opposite effect, says report

Fires poisoning the air

Rampant fires in the Amazon are "poisoning the air" of the rainforest, causing a sharp rise in respiratory emergencies, a recent study found.

LUNGS OF THE WORLD

NOVO PROGRESSO: In May, facing urgent international demands for action after a string of massive wildfires in the Amazon, Brazilian President Jair Bolsonaro put the army in charge of protecting the rainforest.

Instead, the AP has found, the operation dubbed as "Green Brazil 2" has had the opposite effect. Under military command, Brazil's once-effective but recently declining investigation and prosecution of rainforest destruction by ranchers, farmers and miners has come to a virtual halt, even as this year's burning season picks up.

The Brazilian army appears to be focusing on dozens of small road-and-bridge-building projects that allow exports to flow faster to ports and ease access to protected areas, opening the rainforest to further exploitation. In the meantime, there have been no major raids against illegal activity since Bolsonaro required military approval for them in May, according to public officials, reporting from the area and interviews with nine current and former members of Brazil's environmental enforcement agency.

The AP also found that the number of fines issued for environmental crimes has been cut by almost half since four years ago, especially under Bolsonaro.

Two high-ranking officials from IBAMA, the environmental agency, say they have stopped using satellite maps to locate deforestation sites and fine their owners, a once-widely used technique. The officials spoke on condition of anonymity because they were not authorized to talk to the press.

IBAMA is no longer penalising the heads of big networks of illegal logging, mining and farming, according to two other officials.

This island accepts only Covid visitors

TOURIST PARADISE

RIO DE JANEIRO: Fernando de Noronha, a tropical island off Brazil known as one of the world's most coveted travel destinations, said Thursday it is reopening to visitors, with a catch: they have to have had Covid-19.

The island, part of a pristine volcanic archipelago that limits tourism to several hundred arrivals per day, closed five months ago to stop the spread of the new virus.

"In this first phase, only tourists who have already had Covid-19 will be allowed to disembark," officials said in an Instagram post.

Visitors will be required to present a positive test result for the virus along with payment of an environmental tax.

Those arriving on the island are now issued an ID bracelet they must wear until public health officials give them the all-clear, either after completing quarantine or obtaining two negative test results for the coronavirus.

Criminals profiting from plastic waste

RECYCLING SCAMS

LONDON: Criminal networks are profiting from an "overwhelming" surge in plastic waste being shipped from rich countries to Asia and stoking pollution by burning and dumping waste that was supposed to be recycled, a report by Interpol said Thursday.

Plastic consumption has exploded in the last decade, with some 360 million metric tons of waste generated just in 2018, mainly by wealthier nations, Interpol said.

Some countries have imposed recycling targets, rising above 30 percent in Europe, and the report said this had helped drive a lucrative market for used plastic that is projected to reach $50.36 billion by 2022.

But it has also spurred unscrupulous operators to cash in on an industry that is difficult to police, Interpol said, adding there was an "urgent" need to identify how criminals were exploiting loopholes in regulation.

The France-based intergovernmental crime-fighting agency said organised criminal networks use legitimate pollution management businesses as a cover for illegal operations, and that waste crime was behind environmental destruction and even murder.

"Global plastic pollution is one of the most pervasive environmental threats to the planet today, and its correct regulation and management is of critical importance to global environmental security," said Calum MacDonald, who heads Interpol's Environmental Compliance and Enforcement Committee Advisory Board said.

The report, written with input from 40 nations, said many recycling targets were impossible to verify given the "poor visibility" into whether waste was recycled.

Interpol said some major destination countries report high waste mismanagement rates, including India (87%), Indonesia (83%) and Malaysia (57%). "Those numbers indicate that exporting nations may report artificially high recycling rate for their plastic waste, while in fact strong uncertainties remain on how plastic waste shipped overseas is treated," the report said.

FACT OF THE MATTER

Musk startup's brain implant

CUTTING EDGE

Tech billionaire Elon Musk's brain-machine interface company Neuralink is all set to showcase a working device on Friday, shedding new light into the progress of the secretive company. Neuralink is developing high bandwidth brain-machine interfaces to connect humans and machines. While the touted benefits of the company's brain-machine interface range from providing anxiety relief to helping paralysed people control devices, the more immediate goal of the company appears to be allowing people to control their phones and computers with chips that can be implanted on brain. "Live webcast of working @Neuralink device," Musk said in tweet, adding that it will take place on Friday.

Quantum simulation

CHEMICAL REACTION

Google has performed the largest chemical simulation on a quantum computer to date, a feat that can unlock new frontiers in chemistry. The team used a noise-robust variational quantum eigensolver to directly simulate a chemical mechanism via a quantum algorithm. Though the calculation focused on the "Hartree-Fock" approximation of a real chemical system, it was twice as large as prior chemistry calculations on a quantum computer, and contained 10 times as many quantum gate operations. The 'Hartree-Fock' is a method of approximation for the determination of the wave function and the energy of a quantum many-body system in a stationary state.

Japan's 'flying car' gets off ground with a person aboard in successful test flight

SKYDRIVE

TOKYO: The decades-old dream of zipping around in the sky as simply as driving on highways may be becoming less illusory.

Japan's SkyDrive Inc., among the myriads of "flying car" projects around the world, has carried out a successful though modest test flight with one person aboard.

In a video shown to reporters, a contraption that looked like a slick motorcycle with propellers lifted several feet off the ground, and hovered in a netted area for four minutes.

Tomohiro Fukuzawa, who heads the SkyDrive effort, said he hopes "the flying car" can be made into a real-life product by 2023, but he acknowledged that making it safe was critical.

"Of the world's more than 100 flying car projects, only a handful has succeeded with a person on board," he told The Associated Press.

"I hope many people will want to ride it and feel safe."

The machine so far can fly for just five to 10 minutes but if that can become 30 minutes, it will have more potential, including exports to places like China, Fukuzawa said.

Unlike airplanes and helicopters, eVTOL, or "electric vertical takeoff and landing," vehicles offer quick point-to-point personal travel, at least in principle.

They could do away with the hassle of airports and traffic jams and the cost of hiring pilots, they could fly automatically.

Battery sizes, air traffic control and other infrastructure issues are among the many potential challenges to commercializing them.

"Many things have to happen," said Sanjiv Singh, professor at the Robotics Institute at Carnegie Mellon University, who co-founded Near Earth Autonomy, near Pittsburgh, which is also working on an eVTOL aircraft.

"If they cost $10 million, no one is going to buy them. If they fly for 5 minutes, no one is going to buy them. If they fall out of the sky every so often, no one is going to buy them," Singh said in a interview.

The SkyDrive project began humbly as a volunteer project called Cartivator in 2012, with funding by top Japanese companies including automaker Toyota Motor Corp., electronics company Panasonic Corp. and video-game developer Bandai Namco.

A demonstration flight three years ago went poorly. But it has improved and the project recently received another round of funding, of $37 million, including from the Development Bank of Japan.

The Japanese government is bullish on "the Jetsons" vision, with a "road map" for business services by 2023, and expanded commercial use by the 2030s.

Fresh from a divorce, and struggling to re-adapt to his home city, artist Raghava KK shot for Netflix's The Creative Indians, with the episode showing the professional highs as well as the personal lows in his life

● Vidya Iyengar

He was in the middle of a shopping spree when artist brothers Manil-Rohit Gupta approached artist Raghava KK wanting to document his journey for The Creative Indians, on Netflix. "Yes," said Bengaluru's Raghava (40), who at that point, was going through life-altering moments, including a divorce from his childhood sweetheart Netra Srikanth. "Manil and Rohit only said, 'Be you.' So, here I was, dressed like a madhatter, sharing my journey at a time I was heartbroken. There's an honest feel to how they've captured me. I've never liked any documentary on me, and I always cringe while watching even my TED talks, but somewhere this feels different," he says about the show which features the likes of AR Rahman and Boman Irani.

From showcasing his series, Monalisa 2.0, an AI-based work where a face responds to feelings, and his startup, Flipsicle, the documentary blends both his professional highs and personal lows. It also shows him creating art with his children. "It's the first time a documentary has brought different parts of me together," says Raghava, adding that the show is created for neither a theatre nor private home audience, instead for the internet. "I love that. At the same time I understand that I'm on a television screen and not just computers.

> Here I was, sharing my journey at a time I was heartbroken. There's an honest feel to how they've captured me. It brings different parts of me together
>
> —Raghava KK, artist

It feels different," he says about the show which has been shot on iPhone.

Two years ago when he shot for the film, soon after moving back from the USA where he lived for 15 years, Raghava was inundated with work. From 2019 to early 2020 Raghava was in Colombia at an elite intellectuals' gathering, gave a talk in Paris, opened his two studios in Bali and was preparing for a global biennale. He thought the winning streak would continue through the year – that marked 20 years of him exhibiting his art work. "I had close to a million dollars of art commissioned, but suddenly in March – a month I had decided much in advance to take off – I started getting cancellations. I suddenly found myself in debt," he says. The pandemic, he feels, has disrupted the art world, and will, in a way, give an opportunity to reinvent the patronising view of art.

He's lived, travelled, fallen in love and started life again. "It's been an emotional roller coaster," he says, adding that his art represents just that – it is child-like in a certain manner, but also has a serious note and an element of chaos. But in the midst of a rough ride, Raghava has been working on finding his old self. "I've been confronting my biggest fear, loneliness." His brother – Dr Karthik Kalyanaraman, an economist, was also going through a rough patch around the same time-- and art has helped him find his feet again. "Life has kicked us, but that's the reason I've come to understand the importance of experiencing loss and embracing the unknown," he says.

As he homeschools his four young children, he finds that his mother, and twin, Kaesava, have also started drawing and painting. "We were otherwise so busy, but now, art has become the core," he says.

'Bangalore's past will give it a bright future'

BENGALURU BEATS

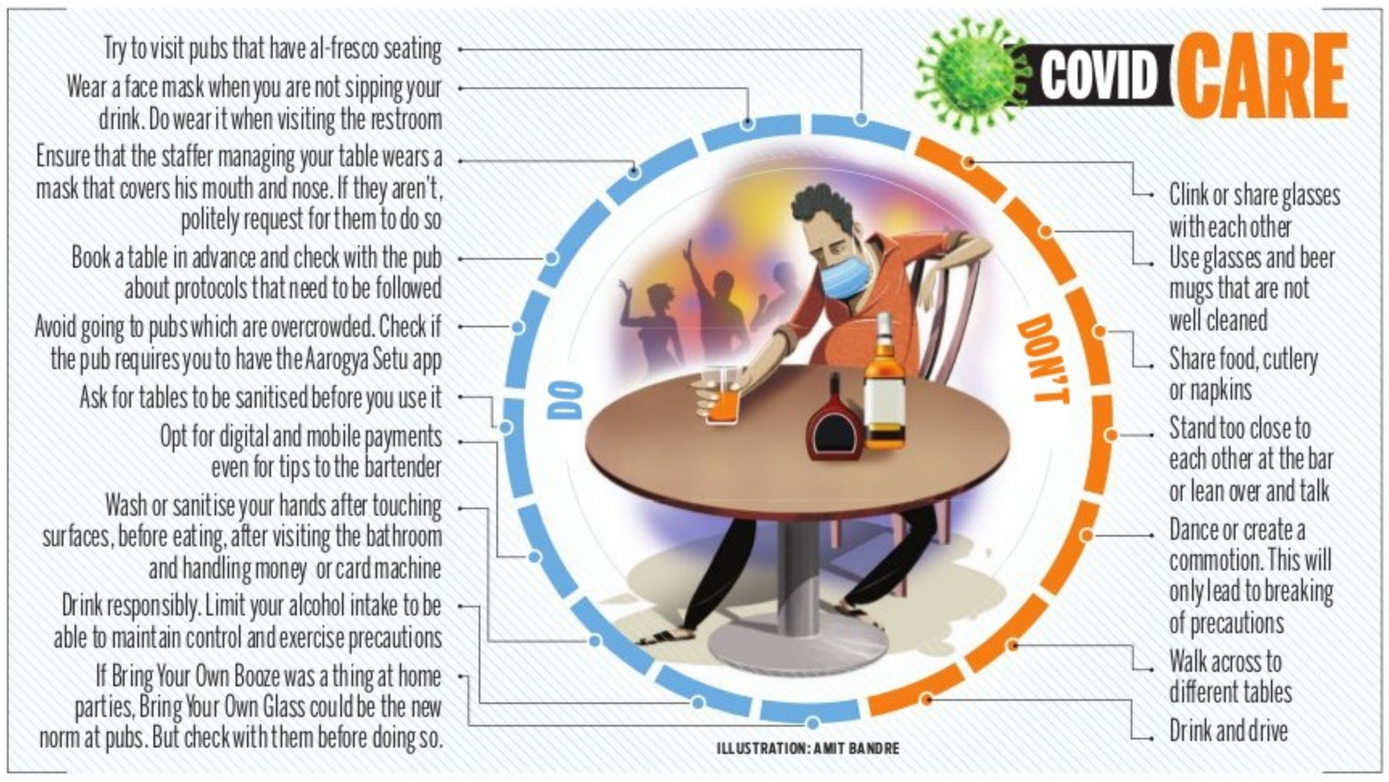
● Dr. Marjorie Vanbaelinghem
Consul General of France

I remember my first day in the city, exactly one year ago: looking up in wonder at the eagles soaring in the clean, cerulean sky and at the majestic trees dotting the city, like jewels in a crown of concrete. When I was done looking up, I looked down, and discovered the chaos of traffic, waste management, the nightmare of not being able to walk in the streets. For Europeans, the latter requires a lot of adaptation -- driving everywhere is unhealthy, unsafe and goes against sustainable urban development. In my first months here, two episodes shocked me: facing a terrifying episode of road rage, during which my diplomatic car was damaged, and discovering that our beloved Cubbon Park had decreased by 30 per cent since it was created. Discipline and respect at the wheel and towards the environment must be imposed in all, citizens and corporates, rich and poor, through institutional communication and education.

What strikes me too is that Bangalore is rich in monuments, culture, history and stories, but all of that is not easily accessible or visible, nor valued as it should be. I have read with delight the excellent guide, Discovering Bengaluru (ed. Meera Iyer, Intach), which gave me new perspectives on the city. This heritage should be better protected and considered by the authorities as one of Bangalore's assets. Bangalore's past is what will give it a brighter future. Caring for its heritage and traditions (folk or classical) will make it one of the world's top cities. Expats come to Bangalore for the professional opportunities in high tech sectors, but they feel happy and are willing to stay many years and to invest, both financially and emotionally here, because they find pristine nature within the city, can visit bookstores, exhibitions and monuments, and attend shows and live music events. Through the Alliance Française de Bangalore, we are proud to contribute to the cultural activities and liberal atmosphere that is the trademark of the city which attracts people from all continents.

SOLUTION : Bangalore's authorities should not just aim at creating a concrete high tech/IT haven but preserve all dimensions of the city, through more support to heritage, culture and environment -- not just through financial support, but by backing those associations that, on the ground, work on such projects and by recognising natural and cultural heritage as comparative advantage for our city.

Let your mixed feelings about Bengaluru get stirred up, as an influential person talks about things nice and nasty about the city in this weekly column



COVID CARE
Try to visit pubs that have al-fresco seating
Wear a face mask when you are not sipping your drink. Do wear it when visiting the restroom
Ensure that the staffer managing your table wears a mask that covers his mouth and nose. If they aren't, politely request for them to do so
Book a table in advance and check with the pub about protocols that need to be followed
Avoid going to pubs which are overcrowded. Check if the pub requires you to have the Aarogya Setu app
Ask for tables to be sanitised before you use it
Opt for digital and mobile payments even for tips to the bartender
Wash or sanitise your hands after touching surfaces, before eating, after visiting the bathroom and handling money or card machine
Drink responsibly. Limit your alcohol intake to be able to maintain control and exercise precautions
If Bring Your Own Booze was a thing at home parties, Bring Your Own Glass could be the new norm at pubs. But check with them before doing so.
DO
DON'T
Clink or share glasses with each other
Use glasses and beer mugs that are not well cleaned
Share food, cutlery or napkins
Stand too close to each other at the bar or lean over and talk
Dance or create a commotion. This will only lead to breaking of precautions
Walk across to different tables
Drink and drive

JUST FOR LAUGHS

Threatening is not the same as trolling: Vir Das

● Express Features

Like all comedians, Vir Das too has been adapting to the lockdown. Over the last few months, he has performed live shows for a faraway audience over Zoom. Around 30 of these gigs, all performed between March and June, have been stitched together in a new standup special titled Inside Out that is available on Vir's website, to be watched for a small sum. In the latest edition of Time Pass, a series of webinars conducted by The New Indian Express group, Vir sat down with senior journalist Kaveree Bamzai and TNIE's Entertainment Editor Sudhir Srinivasan to talk about his new, unique show.

"When the pandemic started, in order to not go insane and try and raise money, I started doing these shows," Vir explained. The challenge of doing comedy over virtual calls was, of course, getting people to ease up. That's perhaps why his first question often is, "What's the first thing you want to do once the lockdown ends?" Vir admitted that he underestimated how vulnerable people were feeling in March. "They would say stuff like 'I miss my loved one' or 'My father is going to die,' So, I can't go, 'Anyway, what's up with airline food right now?' I had to have a conversation with them."

Over the years, Vir, born in Dehradun and raised in Nigeria, has performed all over the world, and his specials (Abroad Understanding, Losing It, Vir Das: For India) lean heavily on his international identity as a performer. He has also acted in the American shows, Whiskey Cavalier and Fresh Off the Boat. But the challenges arising out of the pandemic were something else. "It has been two years since my last world tour. I had forgotten about my international fanbase until they started showing up on Zoom. We had people from Poland, Wuhan, Norway, Australia, South Africa... I realised that this is possibly the first time in my life that we all have global common ground."

Vir Das

The format, he said, has brought him closer to his audience. Eschewing the combative nature of crowd-work ("It's like battle, you have to be mean"), he has been talking to them at a more personal level. A man in Singapore missed his family. A boy rued passing on a foreign scholarship. Vir shared that he has managed to check on 45 of them to see if their wishes have come true. "There was a couple who had a baby in the lockdown. Their dream was to take their child out in sunlight. We have used their photo in the end credits."

Addressing the present situation in Bollywood, Vir said it upset him to see the insensitivity around mental illness. "I had only met him (Sushant Singh Rajput) once. What's saddening to me, apart from the death of a great artiste, is the death of realistic rhetoric around mental health. Suddenly, many news anchors, who do not engage in any great research, are experts on mental health and depression."

Reflecting on the social media abuse his work as a comedian sometimes gets him, Vir spoke about the distinction between trolling and threatening. "I take the freedom to say whatever I want. So, I must, in all good faith, grant that same freedom to my critics. But if you are threatening somebody's safety, if you are outing a person's address, the line has to be drawn."

Vir recently starred in his home production Hasmukh, on Netflix, and will be shooting a rom-com in January. His company, Weirdass, is producing three new shows for OTT. Comedy, of course, will continue, with or without live shows. "The minute we can figure out how to do it safely, you will see a live event boom that will shock you," he said.

Lacing up for a cause

A family that eats together stays together, they say. But here's a family that runs together, and breaks records together. Meet the Bengaluru-based Y S Rajendra Kumar (father), Darshan Jain (son) and Tanmai D (grandson), who have been taking part in marathons across the country for over five years and now want to use their running for a cause. The trio now aims to help people who have lost their livelihood due to the pandemic, through the Sunfeast India Run As One movement, initiated by Procam International. Here, anyone can register at a fee starting at ₹99 upwards, and can pledge to walk, run or jog. Donations can also be made beyond the registration fee.

Between April 2019 and January 2020, the Jain family has completed many runs, including TCS World 2019 (10-k), Airtel Delhi Half Marathon 2019 (21-k), Tata Steel Kolkata 2019 (25-k) and Tata Mumbai Marathon 2020 (42.2-k). Darshan, 52, who ran his first marathon in 2013, is a part of the Jayanagar Jaguar running group, which has 900 runners across 27 locations in India. "We get our training plans from our coach on our own app called Onca Run. My entire family is part of the group," says Darshan, who started running to focus on his fitness, and went on to motivate his father and son to pick it up.

Darshan's son, Tanmai, an engineering student, started running six years ago. "I couldn't do much during the lockdown because I had online classes, but now I have a platform that I can use for the betterment of the society," says the 22-year-old.

Rajendra Kumar, 80, a retired bank professional, has been helping migrants through the Karnataka Jain Association, of which he is the treasurer. "I have been running for six years. Initially, I found it difficult, but once I got used to it, it became a passion. I don't miss any training session. Now, I hope to help people through it," he says.

PURPLE RUMPED SUNBIRD

ENDEMIC TO THE INDIAN SUBCONTINENT

- The birds are less than 10 cm long.
- While the males are brightly coloured with rich hues of brown, green, purple and maroon, females are olive on the upper side, and white and mellow yellow on the underparts.
- Females build the nest with plant fibre, cobwebs, lichens, bark pieces, seeds and more.
- Collecting cobwebs often has them on windowsils, and might have them tapping on the glass – possibly at their own reflection.
- They are known to have scratching posts to get rid of pollen or nectar sticking to them.
- They sometimes indulge in 'nectar theft', piercing the base of the flower when the nectar is too deep to reach.

TREATING TRIBALS

For the past 19 years, Dr Vincent Xavier has been walking into the dense forests of Seethathod, Kerala, to look after the ailing in tribal communities, carrying basic medical equipment. He charges regular rates for his work. But for the underprivileged, he provides his services for free. Lovingly called the 'Makka Doctor' the 55-year-old learned about the village after his marriage, when his wife explained how the tribals in the remote area were not getting proper medical assistance. Several doctors who were appointed to the primary health centre in the village refused to go because of the wild elephants and tigers. In 2001, Xavier started visiting the tribal communities twice a week. Once an outsider, the doctor now gets an invite every year for special occasions from patients whose lives he has saved.

FIT BIT

PARYANKASANA (COUCH POSE)

In Sanskrit, 'paryanka' means 'couch' or 'bed', and 'asana' means 'pose'. This pose is part of the intermediate backbend series of Ashtanga yoga and performed while the legs are held in Virasana. Practitioners should develop flexibility in the ankle, knee and hip joints, and quadriceps, allowing them to feel stable. Once the back bends, the head naturally lifts and yogi will expand the space between the ribs, lengthen the torso and soften the chest and neck to concentrate the energy on the back of the body. While practising, the yogi should not feel or apply any pressure to the neck. The crown rests on the floor for balance, but it should not support the backbend. You can use a bolster under the head, upper and lower back.

STEPS

- Sit in Virasana (Hero Pose).
- Exhale and recline back. Lift your neck and chest. Arch your back and rest only the crown of the head on the floor.
- Make sure that no part of the trunk is on the floor.
- In this position, bend your arms at the elbows. Hold your elbows with opposite hands.
- Now rest the folded arms on the floor behind the head.
- You can stay in the pose for a minute with even breathing.
- Finally, inhale, rest the trunk and neck on the floor, release your hands and sit up in Virasana.
- Straighten the legs one by one and relax.

BENEFITS

- Helps improve flexibility and increases oxygen intake.
- Expands the lungs and chest.
- This pose stimulates thyroid function.
- It improves flexibility of the whole leg.
- Helps stretch the quadriceps.
- Boosts vocal cords, throat, and tongue health.
- Stretches the abdominal area.
- Promotes digestive function.
- Regular practise induces relaxation.

LIMITATIONS

- If you suffer from any injuries or are recovering from a serious surgery, consult a yoga expert.
- Avoid this posture if you have cardiac problems, hypertension, serious knee injuries, stiffness in lower back and neck, or sciatica.
- Pregnant and menstruating women must avoid.

LET'S GIVE LIVING A CHANCE

Good morning, Bangalore

There is a perceptible hope in the air, or are my extra-sensitive genes coming out to play? I was pleasantly surprised at the rush of emotions and sense of oneness my column evoked in a lot of my readers. Some of my indulgent friends and family view me as a rebel, who hates stringent rules and confining attitudes. That is not true! I am certainly not a 'rebel without a cause'. Rules, attitudes and blind obedience is dangerous in my parlance, unless it is logical and has an underlying good karma for all. Hailing from a family that has a varied and mixed gene pool, rituals had no place in our home. Every God was great, morals and principles were first and foremost, and one's word was stringently kept. I was encouraged to speak up for myself, lend a voice to the voiceless, and stand firm on what I believed in (but dialogue was encouraged). I was taught self-expression (it is a honed skill you know!) but 'vomiting' your views and bullying people into agreeing with you was firmly forbidden. See! I can deal with absolute words like 'forbidden' as long as the thought behind it is logical!

So... my 'rebellious' streak acknowledged the perceptible feeling of hope in the air. Since this pandemic was thrust upon us, many of us didn't know how to react to the death, destruction and devastation it brought in its wake. I think as humans we coped pretty well. Initially it was mayhem, almost like something akin to being in nuclear bomb fallout. But slowly we started adapting. Though many times I am disappointed in us as the human race in general, but I always marvel at our resilience and adaptability. We do manage to 'overcome' and show admirable selflessness and courage in the face of adversity. There are still a couple of us who are ignoramuses who are totally unconcerned about the safety or well-being of others. A small thing like wearing a mask (which has now become 'chin accessories') has become an ego problem. Yesterday, I was shocked to see a brute cockily sitting on his scooter (you know that sideways position where his backside acts like an indicator), merrily spitting a trail of beetle-nut juice in his wake! No amount of honking or trying to overtake the offending rascal made a dent in his shameless armour. It was like, "I am free after six months. Catch me if you can"!

I think the government has opened up everything at our peril. I still think we must be cautious depending on one's premorbidity and age. The virus is staying put at the moment and we must circumvent it. We all know ordinary soap and water destroy it and yet we are stupid enough not to wash often! Even an uncaring government cannot monitor us like children. It is a vicious circle, like we see all over the world. We are quarantined, the virus abates, we come out like freed prisoners, we reinfect ourselves, we go back into a lockdown and the circle of stupidity continues. Either the virus will destroy us or an economic collapse will. So why don't we just play smart?

I played smart with my mind and intellect, which had started playing tricks inside my head. Isolation had started taking a toll on a gregarious person like me. Fear and anxiety was an everyday companion, and though I busied myself cleaning, cooking (now I can put any MasterChef to shame!) and intermittently working, sometimes the ennui was so omnipresent that it was almost physical. I am glad I did the needful. I dressed up, wore my designer mask and stepped out to have lunch with my friends. After which I met up with another for an impromptu coffee. Safety, security and serendipity go hand in hand.

Let's give living a chance...

Six city-based theatre artistes are breathing life into live performances again, by bringing plays to your courtyard or any private space for smaller, intimate gatherings

THEATRE ON THE GO

Stills from plays performed by Theatre Artistree for residents of Chikkondanahalli village, Kanakapura

Monika Monalisa

The curtains are slowly raised and characters introduced one-by-one. Every theatre lover knows what comes next: The plot thickens before a satisfying resolution is reached. Such is the charm of the process that enthusiasts argue that no online space can recreate that. But now, thanks to this city-based theatre production house's new initiative, people may not have to settle for virtual performances anymore. Theatre Artistree's project – Theatre At Your Doorstep – aims to bring back the thrill of live performances. Six of its theatre performers have been giving live performances at smaller gatherings and have completed four shows so far. A few more invite-only shows are lined up for the first week of September, dates of which are yet to be decided.

They say necessity is the mother of invention. Just ask the people behind Theatre Artistree – Arunesh Gowda, Chandra Keerthi, Lingaraj, Ravi Kiran, Sandeep Jain and Vidya Ulithya – who started this project after all of them lost their jobs in theatre space due to the lockdown. "Most of us are freelancers and had no job since March. It took a toll on us financially and mentally," says Keerthi, creative director of the company. Sometime in June, the group decided to meet and resume their rehearsals at a resort on Kanakapura Road, owned by one of the group members. "We stayed for 10 days and ideated, came up with new sketches and rehearsed. That's when the idea of taking the plays to smaller gatherings struck us," says Keerthi, who assures that all precautions are taken during their performance.

The project contains three performances. There are two plays, called Life is Beautiful and Kitchen Kavithegalu, and the performance concludes with children's songs. The duration is 1 hour and 20 minutes. "We just wanted to gauge the audience reaction to this before we added more content," says Keerthi. So far, none of the shows has been monetised. "We didn't want to overwhelm the audience with a ticket fee but they were kind enough to give us some donations," adds the 32-year-old. The group also limited the size of the audience. "For a smaller space, we had only 13 people in the audience, while for the fourth performance we got a larger space so we could invite 25-30 people," adds Keerthi, who believes live theatre thrives on the live reactions from its audience. "We just could not come to terms with recording a live play."

SOULFUL

Freedom and love

To commit oneself to freedom and to find out what love is - those are the only two things that matter - freedom and that thing called ₹love'. Without total freedom there cannot possibly be love; and a serious man is committed to these two things only, and to nothing else. Freedom implies - does it not? - that the mind frees itself totally from all conditioning. That is, to uncondition itself - from being a Hindu, a Sikh, a Muslim, a Christian or a Communist - the mind must be in complete freedom - because this division between man as the Hindu, the Buddhist, the Muslim, the Christian, or the American, the Communist, the Socialist, the Capitalist, and so on, has brought disaster, confusion, misery, wars.

So what is necessary first of all is for the mind to free itself from conditioning. You may say it is not possible. If you say it is not possible, then there is no way out. It is like a man living in a prison and saying, "I cannot get out". All that he can do is decorate the prison, polish it, make it more comfortable, more convenient, limit himself and his activities within the four walls of his own making. There are many who say it is not possible - the whole Communist world says it is not possible, therefore let us condition the mind in a different way, brainwash it first, then condition it according to the Communist system. And the religious people have done exactly the same thing, from childhood they are brainwashed and conditioned to believe they are Hindus, Sikhs, Muslims, Catholics. Religions talk about love and freedom, but they insist on conditioning the mind. So if you say man is not capable of freeing himself from his conditioning, then you have no problem. Then you accept the prison and live in the prison, with the wars, with the confusion, with the conflicts, with the misery, the agony and the loneliness of life, with its violence, brutality and hatred; which is what you actually do. But if you say, ₹it must be possible to uncondition the mind', then we can go into it; then we are together - not some authority leading you to it, not the speaker taking your hand and leading you step by step, because when there is freedom there is no authority. Freedom is at the beginning as well as at the end, and if you accept an authority at the beginning, you will always be a slave at the end. So one has to enquire together in freedom; please do understand this. The speaker is not telling you what to do, not setting himself up as an authority - you have had authorities, all you can stomach, with all their absurdities, with all their immaturities - but if you are enquiring (and there is no authority when you enquire) then we can take the journey together, sharing together, not being led. A real scientist is not committed to any government; he has no nationality; he is not seeking an end. As a pure scientist, he is investigating objectively right to the end, without projecting his personality, his nationality, his ambitions.

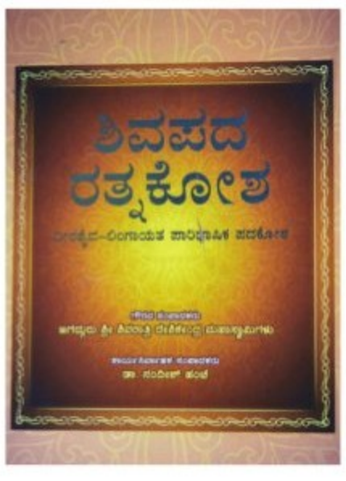
A doorway to spiritual cognizance

Express Features

In recent years, readers of Kannada literature have evinced a major interest towards the mystical 'Shivadharma' and the literature related to the Sharana Chaluvali of the 12th century, touted as one of the first and most powerful egalitarian social movements in the history of humankind. Devotees of Lord Shiva, Sharanas came from all walks of life and their discourses, known as Vachanas, refer to everyday experiences of common people, combining them with spiritual concepts. Several literary works by Veerashaiva poets and authors are known to delve on divine conceptions that need detailed study.



In order to facilitate such reading, JSS Granthamale has published 'Shivapada Ratnakosha', a comprehensive glossary of Veerashaiva-Lingayat lexicon, aided by the Department of Kannada and Culture, Govt of Karnataka. Conceptualised in 2011, this work has taken several years of planning and work by a team of scholars. It contains over 4,000 citations and more than 40,000 usages from Veerashaiva literature and Vachanas.

In his foreword, Seer of Suttur JSS Mutt, Jagadguru Sri Shivarathri Deshikendra Mahaswamiji, who is the honorary editor of Shivapada Ratnakosha, stresses on the importance of glossaries that unravel the social, spiritual vocabulary of a particular community or faith, saying that they encompass the ideas related to history, culture and heritage.

In this glossary, natural language definitions from available sources have been offered and simple expressions have been applied to identify their general use and specific principle. In his introduction to the glossary, executive editor of Shivapada Ratnakosha, Dr Nandeesh Hanchye, says the project materialised as there was a strong need for a comprehensive, extended phrasebook on Veerashaiva-Lingayat literature that can facilitate religious, social and cultural studies as well as research. Shivapada Ratnakosha has taken shape following the principles of linguistics, comprising scientific and historic explanations, backed by apt references, he adds.

Not the hot mess it wants to be

Ashameera Aiyappan

When I heard a show about Masaba Gupta was coming up on Netflix, I was immediately intrigued. I find Masaba's prints fascinating and her palette vibrant; her aesthetics fuse the modern with the traditional. Not to mention, she is the daughter of Neena Gupta, who is a rockstar in her own right. So, I was interested in the premise of this partly-fictionalised series based on the lives of these two unconventional achievers. But Masaba Masaba isn't quite the heady mix of fashion and drama you would expect.

The series begins as Masaba's marriage heads towards a divorce. The celebrity fashion designer is not given much time to process this before the information hits the papers as a blind item. Masaba Masaba walks us through as she struggles to meet work demands, battles financial difficulties, and also relationship quandaries. There is a lot of material to work with, and yet the series picks a cliched narrative to tell this story. There's a divorce, but we aren't told why the couple separated. Masaba faces financial difficulties, but again this isn't really explored. There is a thread about her visiting a life coach who, by Masaba's admission, has 'more issues than herself'. And yet, she keeps seeing her. The tone of the series is superficial, and it consistently refuses to take itself seriously.

Now, had the writing matched this tone, where we didn't have to take the people seriously, it would have been more cohesive. But the moments we are given are quite real, only they sadly get buried under the superficiality. For example, Masaba realises the need to have her own space — not her mother's, not her husband's, but her own place. She and her ex-husband discuss grammar in an Instagram post about their divorce. Thanks to an argument, Masaba refuses to talk to Neena in real life, but that doesn't stop her from backing her mother's social media post about seeking work. It is ironic, but it is a reminder of the social-media-addled existences we lead.

The biggest disappointment is that the series doesn't throw any light on how Masaba works — her creative process behind those celebrated designs. Now, don't get me wrong. I do realise that this isn't a biopic. And even otherwise, there's nothing wrong with showing the personal side of a celebrity, and not just sticking to their professional life. However, Masaba Masaba does absolutely nothing in this space. Towards the end of the series, Masaba comes up with a cool theme for her new collection. But, the series just skates over how she interprets this: the drapes, silhouettes, fabrics, patterns, etc. Even more baffling is how she just sails past a disastrous fashion show with merely a few good Instagram posts.

Despite all this, the lively screen presence of Masaba and Neena manages to give us a few good moments: like the one where a fabric vendor attempts to sell her own prints to Masaba, or the one where she has to design matching outfits for a celebrity's dogs as well. It is charming that Masaba finds her inner child, at places, during this journey. The best of these are the exchanges between Neena and Masaba. "She did everything, and yet, stifles me all the time," says Masaba to her therapist. The duo shares some tender conversation about work, handling fame, and all other debacles life throws at them. It is a narrative I wish the show had explored more. But these moments are few and far between. Consequently, Masaba Masaba doesn't quite turn out to be the 'hot mess' it aspires to be.

DIRECTOR DINESH BABOO'S 50TH FILM TITLED RACHITA RAM'S KASTURI NIVASA

The film is based on a true incident, which took place in the director's life. The shoot is likely to begin from September 25

Dinesh Baboo, the director of films like Suprabatha, Amrutha Varshini, Laali, Nishyabda and Abhi, has announced his 50th film, Rachita Ram's Kasturi Nivasa. The paranormal thriller will feature Rachita Ram in the lead, alongside Shruti Prakash and Skanda. The film was launched on August 28 with the makers unveiling the title poster.

Rachita Ram

Dinesh Baboo

Dinesh has chosen to reuse of Rajkumar's classic evergreen hit's title Kasturi Nivasa for his film. According to the director, who has also written the story, screenplay and dialogues, the fragrance of Kasturi is a major element in his film, and that's one of the reasons he fixed this title.

The filmmaker shares that the story is based on a true incident, which took place in his life. "The film explores a paranormal activity, it is a thriller which can also be taken as a horror depending upon each audience."

The director's idea is to transcend his personal experience to the silver screen. "After what I have gone through, I do believe in the existence of ghosts, not the kind wearing white sarees," he chuckles and further adds, "I can feel their presence, especially in my breath."

Even though he has directed 44 films in Kannada, 2 in Telugu, 2 in Malayalam and 1 in Tamil, he says that he will still approach Kasturi Nivasa like his first film. About his decision of choosing Rachita Ram to play the lead, he says, "I was looking for a beautiful girl, and also a good artiste, and she fits the bill."

The makers have tentatively planned to begin shoot from September 25, and the locations are yet to be finalised. "We are planning to shoot the film in one schedule," he says.

Kasturi Nivasa has PKH Dass handling the cinematography and music will be scored by Gumineni Vijay scoring music. "The film has just one song," says Dinesh adding, "Sound will be given utmost importance in our films, and that's one of the reasons we are going with Atmos sound technology."

Kasturi Nivasa, produced by Ravish RC and Reuben Raj, is currently being slated for a direct OTT release and the team is planning to tie up with one of the best streaming channels. "Considering the present scenario, and the uncertainty over the reopening of theatres, the producers think it is better to have an OTT release. However we are approaching it like a theatrical release, and we will make the final call once the film is ready," he says.

AN EFFECTIVE BUT CONFLICTING COMMENTARY ON THE FAILINGS OF FAITH

Avinash Ramachandran

Aashram, a series about a conman in the garb of a godman, introduces Baba Nirala (an effective Bobby Deol) like a superstar in a masala film. A hospital is under siege by some upper caste hooligans to delay the treatment of a Dalit who was beaten up by them. The police are trying to broker peace between the victim and the oppressor instead of meting out justice. Baba Nirala walks into the hospital with much fanfare and proves he is no ordinary peace-loving, aashirwad-giving, docile-natured ascetic. In fact, he is a literal ball-buster who manages to wring out justice from those hooligans. The Baba becomes Babaji in the eyes of these oppressed people. And over the next nine episodes, we see how Baba's projection as the one true saviour has obviously nefarious purposes.

Aashram takes its time to talk about how a circle of trust is built around such controversial figures, and how this power structure is deeply interlinked with politics. It is a neat move to model Babaji around more than one notorious real-life godman. After a point, it becomes a case of playing match what's unfolding onscreen to the corresponding real life incident. However, Aashram is not just about the machinations of a con/godman. It is also about the inherent casteism present in various sections of society. That is probably why, more than the colourful life of Baba Nirala, it is Darshan Kumaar's Ujagar Singh who is the most conflicted character in the series.

Ujagar is the cop who advises those Dalit people to not file a case of attempted murder against the upper caste hooligans who beat them up. The same Ujagar is in-charge of investigating the case of a buried body dug out after a few years. Initially, he has no qualms in dancing to the tune of his seniors, who want the case closed due to political influence. But soon, he has a change of heart because he falls in love (at first sight, no less) with Dr Natasha who wants to get to the bottom of the case. While this reason for becoming a good cop might seem flimsy, it is still okay. What's not okay is his deep-rooted disdain for the quota system in the police. He is furious that a corrupt Dalit cop is favoured for promotion. Ujagar, who is called a Manuwadi for his beliefs, refers to the promoted cop with veiled casteist slurs.

Now, this same series talks about how the blatant oppression of Dalits is going unchecked in our society. This same series talks about how this oppression is not just a bunch of isolated incidents but a deeply systemic issue. The same series shines the light on the unholy nexus between godmen and political leaders. We see how the shady dealings of such ashrams go unnoticed because some political leaders see the followers as vote banks.

Now, do we write this off as inconsistent writing or read deeper into it? Is it possible for a nice person in pursuit of justice to be casteist too? Is it possible for a Dalit cop to receive that promotion if he didn't side with the Baba, who is perceived to be the saviour of oppressed sections of that area? The world doesn't exist in binaries, and Aashram is all about such grey areas. Baba is a man who tells Pammi (Aaditi Pohankar), a runaway wannabe Sadhvi, to go back home and be with her parents because they have her best interests in mind. Baba also runs charitable schools, colleges and hospitals. On the other hand, he drugs some of his followers and forces them to undergo a "purification" process. While the visuals of this process allude to some sort of sinister medical procedure akin to organ harvesting, the reality was more perverse and shocking.

Given Prakash Jha has dealt with such controversial topics in his feature films, there was curiousity to see what he would do with this fascinating premise on an uncensored platform. But for a mainstream filmmaker like Prakash Jha, skirting around such themes to avoid too many cuts, must be second nature by now. That may be why there is a lot of self-censoring in Aashram.

When we are finally left with Baba Nirala sitting at his sprawling ashram overlooking a lake and meditating, we want to know more. How did Monty become Baba Nirala? Why does Baba have nightmares about a long-dead girl? How did the dogged persistence of some members of the police and media bring down the empire? Aashram might have shrouded itself with unending controversies, but what really determines the success of a web series is its binge-worthiness. And on that count, Aashram is a sure winner.
